Sympathetic reader

DEar Editor:

May I extend my deepest sympathy to Mr. Alfred Kay of Sacramento on his distress over receipt of a $5 parking fee in Carmel. I can also offer him some consolation.

While spending the Labor Day weekend with a friend at the Benbow Inn in Garberville, we ventured into town for a simple breakfast. Imagine our surprise on leaving the coffee shop to find our car ticketed for parking near a fire hydrant which was so well hidden behind a telephone pole that neither of us saw it when parking. The modest fine was $20.

Don't let Carmel's $5 fine trouble you Mr. Kay. . . you may be able to do better farther up in your neck of the woods. A former Carmelite who now lives in Los Gatos and has not yet offended and certainly will not try to, as I really don't want to know what they will assess me.

LCP called 'idiotic'

DEar Editor:

When the Carmel Area Local Coastal Plan (LCP) came up for certification in South San Francisco recently, a 100-page document of recommendations was presented to the Coastal Commission by the regional staff, and it literally blew the LCP that the Monterey Board of Supervisors had already okayed right out of the water!

Over two years of work, and all of the good efforts of the realistic Board of Supervisors went down the drain! Worse, none of us received our copies of this destructive document more than a day or so before the commission hearing!

Still worse was the fact that we were given only three minutes each to testify and told that local testimony on this important part of our lives must not exceed one hour! There were hundreds of Carmel / Monterey people there, ready to object, and there was no way that all could be heard properly. Yet,

Report from Sacramento

Some of the accomplishments of Legislature this session

By SAM FARR, Assemblyman, 28th A.D.

In previous columns I highlighted several bills making their way through the legislative process here in the Capitol. Now that the Legislature has officially concluded its lawmaking business for the rest of the year, I wanted to bring you up to date on the status of those innovative proposals.

In mid-March, Richard Katz (D-Sepulveda) introduced a measure to get government off the backs of small business person by reimbursing them for attorney's fees, witness fees and administrative proceeding costs — up to $7,500 — When they are wrongfully fined, cited or sued by the State. The offending agency will pay the awards out of its own operating budget.

This measure, which I co-authored, became small business' first legislative priority. The Carpenter-Katz Small Business Equal Access to Justice Act, as it is known now, passed all its legislative tests and was sent to the Governor for signature.

The signing of this bill will signal the first concrete step in correcting the severe imbalance of power that exists between overly aggressive state agencies and small business.

Also in a previous column, I talked about the problems that the unlicensed contractor makes for consumers, the government, and legitimate contractors. Assemblyman Leo McCarthy's AB 1095 stipulates that penalties collected from unlicensed contractors be the Coastal Act calls for public input.

Next step in this bureaucratic mess will be a hearing on Oct. 7, and if you value your property rights, you had better be at the Carmel Holiday Inn.

If the commission certifies this devastating instrument of staff idiocy, (and most staff members don't even live in the Carmel/Monterey area, apparently) we have lost our property rights, have given open permission to trespass on privately owned land that is far too fragile for this sort of over impacting, and we might as well kiss our Carmel Coast "goodbye"!

Protection of the Coast is not the theme of the staff recommendations! Destruction is!

Bullies in aviation?

DEar Editor:

The controllers' walkout presents a classic lesson in stress. Controllers practically go mad when they consider that pilots earn $100,000 a year. Pilots, in turn, are envious that some of their passengers rip off that much in one day pushing cocaine. All this greedy, green-eyed tension rubs off on key radar and computer mechanics, anyone of whom could pull the plug next.

Head shrinkers are having a field day telling their fearful clients to leave it all to Big Daddy. The money spent on reassuring these would-be flyers would keep Amtrak running for months!

Completely ignored in the national debate is the genuine stress of the endangered homeowner. Aircraft loaded with dangerous stuff fly over helpless homeowners anytime of the day or night, everyday of the week. Slick experts talk about "acceptable losses" — not a very comforting thought for long-suffering homeowners.

Stressed flyers can always change their lifestyles, keyed-up pilots and controllers can always quit, but homeowners are strapped into straitjackets not of their own making. Every plan they hear could be their last.

This reprehensible disregard of homeowners' feelings spring foremost from the numbness of the nomadic military mind that dominates the aviation community. These subsidized bullies won't back off until brave homeowners stand up and fight for their constitutional rights.

More nonsense on Piccadilly

By AL EISNER

THERE DOESN'T SEEM to be any end to the foolishness the citizens of Carmel will have to endure before a satisfactory conclusion is worked out for the Piccadilly site on Dolores.

The landscape designer hired by the city has come up with a plan (see article and diagram on adjacent page) which won nods of approval from city officials. It shows plainly that the park area will include property which the city does not own. And, to make matters even more confusing, the property owner has not been contacted by the city.

This is just another foul-up by our bumbling city government, in the sad Piccadilly affair.

Regular observers of city government will recall that the whole mess started a couple of years ago when Mrs. Mary Lou Linhart and her brother, George Linsley, who owned the Piccadilly lot and the adjacent property, won approval from the planning commission for a small complex of shops that would have spread over both lots.

Certain members of the City Council freaked at the prospect of more shops on Dolores and pushed for the city to buy the lot. Threatened with condemnation, Mrs. Linhart and her brother, both long-time Carmel residents, reluctantly agreed to sell the property.

Many people in Carmel were upset because they felt the price ($400,000) was astronomical and that there were better ways of using the money. After agreeing to submit the matter to a vote, the council abruptly changed its mind and voted instead to buy it without seeking the advice of the people. (Some other pertinent details are in the article on the facing page.)

Matters took an ironic turn this week when the attorney for Mrs. Linhart and Mr. Linsley pointed out that the people of Carmel would have had 3,500 square feet of open space with the original plan submitted by his clients. The extra 500 square feet is going to cost the city taxpayers $400,000 . . . plus development costs of at least $75,000 . . . plus maintenance and repairs . . . plus loss of property tax revenue.

It's not too late for the city to back off and sell the property. That's what the people of Carmel apparently wanted, according to a reader poll taken by this newspaper.

Based on the inept handling of the whole thing from the beginning, we can only assume that further bungling lies ahead.

MOST FOLKS reading this edition probably won't notice much difference from our usual format. Close observers, however, will note that we had to substitute type faces for certain parts of the paper, and that some regular departments got shifted around.

It was all caused by a computer crash in our typesetting department this week. The super-human efforts of several dedicated people in our production department made it possible for us to publish on time. We are all grateful for their efforts.

Know a student who needs a tutor? Naval officers offer it for free

The Monterey Chapter of the National Naval Officers Assoc. will conduct a free tutorial program for students of all ages, every Saturday from 9-11 a.m. at the Multi-Use Center, 986 Hilby Ave., Seaside.

The program, held in conjunction with the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District, will continue until the end of the year.

The program is open to anyone who wants assistance in general math, English, writing, algebra, chemistry, geometry, statistics and other areas of indicated interest.

All tutors are volunteers, who are students or staff members at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Persons interested in participating should come to the Multi-Use Center on Saturdays before 9 a.m. For more information, contact Lloyd Clark at 649-6423, or Harry Watkins at 372-4642 after 6 p.m.

The Mayor's Report

Only 13 applied for General Plan advisory panel

By BARNEY LAIOLO

The special meeting of the City Council Sept. 16 dealt with two items, including selection of local citizens who filed applications to serve on the advisory panel for the updating of the General Plan.

It was rather disappointing to see only 13 people file for these seats. In considering the important decisions that will apply to our city's future, I hope that when public meetings are held in the near future, a much larger number of people will attend to furnish their ideas to the consultants to enable them to come up with the best possible solutions for the city's advantage.

Please remember: this is your town and your voice must be heard. Don't complain later that you don't approve of the final decisions if you didn't come forth with what your ideas might be. True, all suggestions may not be able to be incorporated in the plan, but the more input we receive from the public the more help the consultants will have in coming to some reasonable answers. Make it a point to be at the public meetings to express your thoughts.

The selection of the advisory committee was done by a weighted voting method in which Council members listed choices in order of preference giving 13 votes to their first choice and so on to one vote for their last choice. These votes are public record and available at City Hall to anyone interested.

The final vote was: Judge Campbell, 54; Dr. Don Davidson, 48; John Eatherton, 41; Mrs. Lillard, 40; Les Gross, 39; Mrs. Meyer, 34. The two alternates and their votes are Gene Hammond, 32; and Alan Williams, 30. These names complete the basic format approved by the Council for seven regular and two alternate members of the advisory panel.

I have received additional information related to the study of a parking facility at the library annex site and hopefully will have a plan to present soon.

As the sign reads in an Ocean Avenue bakery.... "Give your face something to do: SMILE!"

City has plans for land next to Piccadilly, but owner hasn't agreed

Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson is to present the City Council with a report Oct. 5 on possible use of private property as part of landscaping for the city-owned Piccadilly Park.

At a special session last week the council directed Peterson and City Attorney George Brehmer to meet with the property owner—Mary Lou Linhart—concerning use of her property as part of an overall landscape design for the park.

Mrs. Linhart owns a slice of land approximately 40-by-80 feet directly behind the Merry Loom shop on Dolores, and adjacent to the city's 40-by-100 parcel acquired recently from Mrs. Linhart under threat of condemnation for $400,000.

A preliminary sketch of landscape plans for the park presented last week to the City Council by landscape architect Gordon Andrews of Santa Cruz included Mrs. Linhart's property as part of the total park design.

But as of Monday, there had been no meeting between any city representatives and the property owner. Mrs. Linhart referred inquiries to her attorney.

"Nobody has approached us yet regarding the space behind her property," said Thomas Hawley, Mrs. Linhart's attorney. "We have seen drawings that incorporate her property into the park, but the city hasn't spoken to my client."

Hawley said he finds it ironic that the total amount of open space which will be provided in Piccadilly Park—about 4,000 sq. ft.—is roughly the same amount of space which would have been provided in a now-defunct plan brought before the city by Mrs. Linhart in 1978.

Mrs. Linhart and her brother, George Linsley, proposed construction of a row of shops along the wall of the Toots Lagoon restaurant, which would have incorporated open space from the piece of property the city now wants to include in park landscape plans.

Total amount of open space in that project, which would have included landscaping and plantings, was 3,500 sq. ft., Hawley said. In addition, he noted, commercial use of the property would have kept it on the city tax rolls.

"This is the same area we were willing to dedicate for city use when we wanted to put in our courtyard," Hawley said. "We were going to put in 3,500 sq. ft. of open spaces with benches."

That proposal was given conceptual approval by the planning commission in 1978, but the City Council decided upon review of the project that it wanted to purchase the property because it feared proliferation of more shops.

The council entered into a $600 monthly lease agreement with the property owners in 1979 while it attempted to negotiate purchase of the land. In November of 1979, Carmel voters passed by 806 to 627 an advisory ballot measure in favor of purchase.

The measure stipulated that the city pay "the fair market value of the property as determined by negotiations between the city and the owners of the property or as determined by the court if it is necessary to acquire the property through eminent domain."

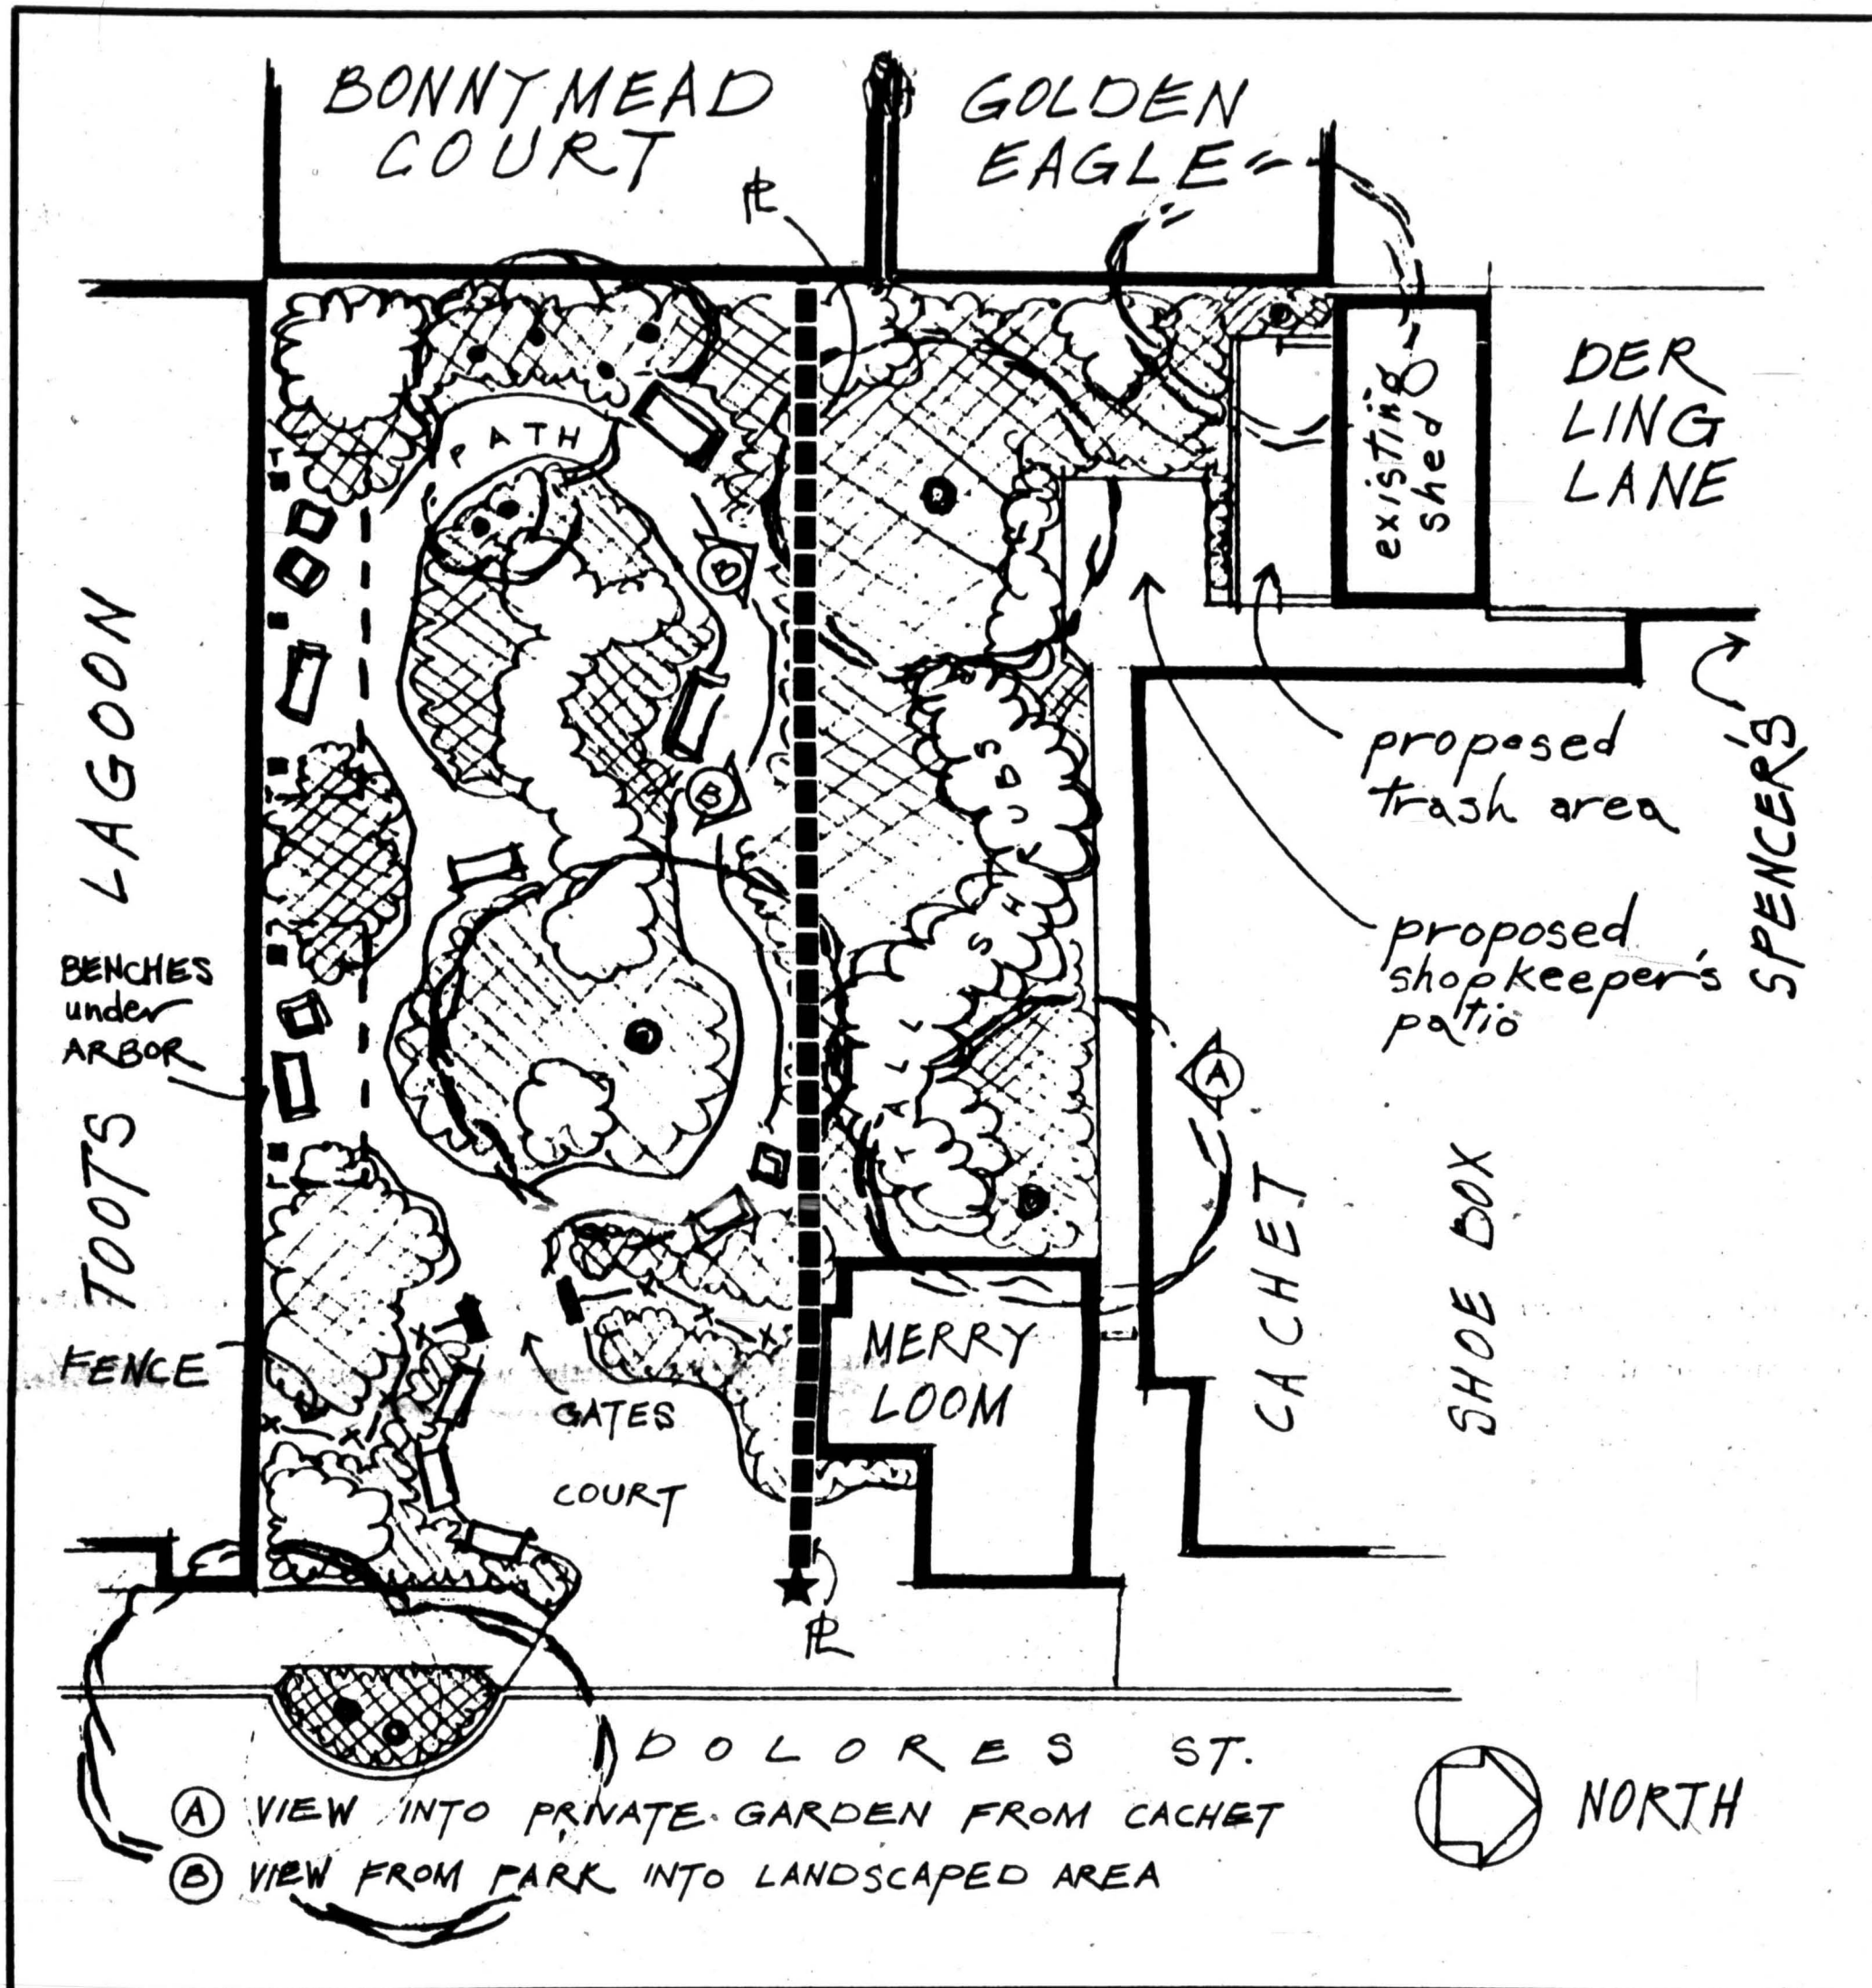

On Aug. 19, 1980, the council voted unanimously to place the Piccadilly land purchase question on the ballot "at a price not to exceed $396,500."

Two days later, the council scuttled plans for that referendum and proceeded—by a vote of 3-1—with plans to purchase the property for no more than $396,500. Mayor Barney Laiolo voted "no" and Councilwoman Helen Arnold was absent.

Actual purchase of the Piccadilly property was consummated last March at a price of $400,000. The city has budgeted an additional $75,000 for park landscaping improvements.

When the council decided to purchase the property, it acted contrary to a recommendation by City Administrator Doug Peterson.

"The question is if the public interest or

PICCADILLY PARK plans drawn by landscape architect Gordon Andrews for presentation to the Carmel City Council last week included the private property behind the Merry Loom (to the right of the broken line). The property is owned by Mary Lou Linhart, who said this week through her attorney that she has not been approached by the city about possible use of her land to complement the open space in the park.

the community is served through this acquisition, weighed against other competing demands," Peterson advised the council in a May 7, 1980 memorandum.

"I can not, from an administrative standpoint, recommend acquisition of this property," Peterson advised.

Landscape architect Andrews said he included Mrs. Linhart's property behind the Merry Loom in his preliminary sketch "to show the possibilities of what could be done."

"It was shown as part of the overall park design to bring up council discussion on whether they wanted to do something back there. It was my idea to include it."

"I've been looking at everything all around, on and off the property, to see what the possibilities are. We're also looking into some sort of drainage system using part of Bonnymead Court in the back."

"The possibilities for fencing along Mrs. Linhart's property are good, too. That would be an improvement for her property. There's also the possibility of involving citizens with planting as part of the project. We're just in the stage of exploration now."

Mayor Barney Laiolo—who has consistently opposed city purchase of the property for a park—had a somewhat different view.

"The city is not in any position to pay for planting anyone else's property," Laiolo said. "I don't know how the hell those plans came out that way. There would have been as much open space with Mrs. Linhart's plan as we have now."

Peterson said one of the possibilities which will be explored with the property owner before the Oct. 5 council meeting is some type of easement to allow public access.

"If the property remains in private ownership then the city can't use public funds to improve it," Peterson said. "The cleanest thing from the city's standpoint would be to get the property owner to use the same type of plantings that we're going to use in the park."

"The landscape architect is saying that from the design standpoint, this property is adjacent and it's compatible. The owner of that property has indicated an interest in doing something nice back there."

"But I understand she is not particularly interested in the city doing anything on that property that would make people think there's some kind of public interest. They feel that's what happened on the original Piccadilly property."

"I don't think they want to get into the psychology that the public owns the land. Basically, as I understand their position it's: 'Present us with something specific and we'll react to it.' So it's incumbent on the city to present them with some alternatives."

The Forestry Commission has indicated it wants the park available for daytime use only, and had ruled out the placement of public restrooms. The City Council has indicated it would like several benches placed near the entrance on Dolores Street and would like the property planted with native vegetation.

CV Ranch seeks use permit - again

DEVELOPERS OF THE Carmel Valley Ranch will seek two use permits from the Monterey County Planning Commission next Wednesday, Sept. 30.

The first is an amended use permit application for only 11 units of housing for the parcel on which the developer — Landmark Lands Co. of Oklahoma—already had received tentative approval for 33 units of low-income employee housing from the planning commission.

But that action was appealed to the Board of Supervisors by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, by the developer, and by Richard Rosenthal of Carmel Valley. It was then returned to the planning commission for re-hearing and amendment.

Project manager Kaye Chandler said Carmel Valley Ranch wants to reduce the number of units on the parcel from 33 to 11 because of economic conditions.

Also conditionally approved June 10 by the planning commission were 80 units of housing in the next phase of construction.

Supervisors sent both portions of the initial use permit—the 33 employee housing units as well as the 80 regular units—back to the planning commission Aug. 18 for reconsideration.

"Technically, they don't have a use permit for the 80 units in the next phase of construction, pending the appeals to the Board of Supervisors," said Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon.

"Until that appeal is dropped or resolved, they don't have a use permit. However, we suspect that the board will approve the use permit once the 33 units are dropped, because the board already has approved the specific plan for Carmel Valley Ranch, which is for 500 units.

"Theoretically, it's possible that the 80 units could be killed at this point, though."

Tied to the further development of Carmel Valley Ranch is completion of the intersection at Robinson Canyon-Carmel Valley Road to accommodate increased traffic volume.

Carmel Valley Ranch Co. appealed conditions in its use permit regarding timing of the intersection improvements.

Specifically, the developer didn't like a condition which would have required that contracts for the intersection improvements must be awarded prior to approval of plans for

DEPUTY COUNTY Counsel Jose Ramos said he has advised the Board of Supervisors that the contract between the county and the developer stipulates when the intersection improvements are to be made.

to completion of the intersection," Ramos said. "The board is stuck with the contract with the developer."

That contract specifies that the intersection improvements must be completed within two years after the approval of the final map of the first phase of construction. The approval for the first 140 units in the project was given in June of 1980.

County Public Works Director Bruce McClain said the work on the intersection could begin as early as January. The Board of Supervisors Aug. 18 approved by a vote of 3-0 a declaration of negative environmental impact for the intersection work.

The county has a letter of credit from the developer in the amount of $3.2 million to cover the developer's share of the costs, Ramos indicated.

"We have not made any demand on that credit yet, but it means that on 30-day notice, the county writes to the bank and we get reimbursed. This is the best security the county could have."

The planning commission is scheduled to hold its hearing on the use permit for the 80 housing units at 10:45 a.m. Hearing on the rezoning for the 11 housing units, to replace the initial 33, is scheduled for 3:50 p.m.

The county planning commission meets in the Board of Supervisors chambers in the Monterey County Courthouse in Salinas.

District to test sending CV water to Seaside

By ROBERT MISKIMON

WITHIN THE NEXT few weeks, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District will begin a bold experiment to test the feasibility of drawing water from the Carmel River to recharge the underground water table in Seaside.

If the $8,000 test shows positive results, the system could be used to increase the storage capacity of the Seaside aquifer by as much as 10,000 acre feet.

That additional storage capacity could translate into an additional 1,700 ac. ft. of water available to all residents of the district—including those in Carmel and Carmel Valley.

The two primary sources of fresh water for the Monterey Peninsula service area of California-American Water Co. are the Seaside aquifer, which supplies about one-third of the water, and the Carmel River aquifer, which provides the other two-thirds.

If test results are encouraging, the district may well embark on a regular program of taking water from the Carmel Valley water table, shipping it through the Canada de la Segunda pipeline, and injecting it underground in Seaside.

At their Sept. 14 meeting, directors of the district approved an agreement with consultants John Logan of Carmel and WWD Corp. of Monterey to carry out the project during a three-week period before Jan. 1, 1982.

Once permits are obtained from the Coastal Commission and the City of Seaside, the test will begin—probably within six weeks, according to Frances Krebs, resource analyst with the district.

"The testing involves the injection of water in both an injection well and a trench, and then observation of the rate of buildup and dispersion," district manager Bruce Buel explained to the board.

Both tests will measure the effectiveness of creation of a salt water barrier to the Seaside aquifer. If a fresh water barrier can be created and maintained by injection, the aquifer's storage capacity can be increased, Ms. Krebs explained.

It would also mean that during drought years, the aquifer could be pumped lower than sea level to increase available water supplies. Because of intensive pumping from the Seaside aquifer, some salt water intrusion already has occurred, she said.

"EXPERIMENTALLY, we'll pump 20 gallons per minute into the ground for 60 percent of the time for three weeks. The injection well will be drilled five feet below the groundwater table, which is about 30 to 35 feet below ground."

Three monitor wells in the vicinity of the injection well will be used to determine to what extent the water barrier, or "cone," around the injection well has been built up.

"When a regular well is pumped, a cone of depression forms around the well," Krebs said. "The reverse happens when you pump water into the ground through an injection well. You get a cone which forms upward around the well."

A series of injection wells arranged along the edge of Monterey Bay would produce a line of intersecting cones, which would form the barrier against sea water. It would enable additional supplies of water pumped from Carmel Valley to be stored, she said.

"A series of injection wells would produce a raised water table in the area of the wells. The cones create a barrier to the salt water and continue filling the aquifer until the

CARMEL UNIFIED School District Supt. Bill Rand denied charges that the district had failed to negotiate with teachers in good faith and said at least three additional teachers will have to be hired this fall because of higher-than-anticipated enrollment. (Alan McEwen photo).

HOWARD SANBORN, a Carmel High School teacher, accused the school district negotiators of "backing off" from their original salary offer of a 4.8 percent increase, and said the district has funds to give teachers the 5.5 percent increase they have demanded. (Alan McEwen photo).

State mediator called in to break impasse between teachers, district

A state mediator has been called into the Carmel Unified School District in an effort to resolve an impasse in contract negotiations between the district and the Association of Carmel Teachers.

Talks between teachers and the district were broken off last week after teachers picketed at district administrative offices near Carmel Middle School.

"We've had no success in negotiating with the district," said Warren Fishburn, a teacher at Carmel Middle School. "Negotiations are supposed to be a process of give-and-take, but we've been doing all the giving."

When an impasse was declared Thursday, the district had offered the teachers a 4.8 percent salary increase, plus 1 percent in fringe benefits, according to Supt. Bill Rand.

The Association of Carmel Teachers, which had originally requested a total 14 percent salary package for the 1981-82 school year, held firm on a demand for a 5.5 percent salary increase, Rand said.

The teachers also asked for life insurance for themselves plus health insurance to cover dependents. Another point of disagreement is binding arbitration of teacher grievances.

The teachers' union asked for binding arbitration instead of the present method of advisory arbitration. Robert Zampatti, district business manager and a member of the district negotiating team, said:

"We discussed the issue of binding arbitration of grievances, but the Board of Education has not seen fit to grant it because the board believes the board should have final responsibility for what happens in the district, and that the responsibility shouldn't be transferred to someone else."

Others on the district negotiating team are Trustees Doyle Clayton and Ken White.

The district offered teachers a "contingency" salary increase, which would be figured on the basis of 50 percent of any unanticipated revenues, not to exceed an additional 2.5 percent increase in teacher salaries, Superintendent Rand indicated.

Teachers, on the other hand, asked for a 2.5 percent contingency increase, to be figured on the district's ending balance at the close of the fiscal year.

"The school district wants to have the contingency increase based on a May 15, 1982 cutoff date," Fishburn said. "But most of the money comes into the district after that. That's why we wanted a June 13 cutoff date."

Another issue is the number of shortened ("minimum") days for teachers. The teachers' union wants at least four minimum days for all teachers in the district, but the district's position is not to allow any more shortened days, Rand said.

"Our experts indicate there is considerably more money available than the district says," said Fishburn. "The teachers asked to meet earlier with the board, but the board moved too slowly."

"There were only three sessions during the summer, and this is the first one we've had since school started," Fishburn said last Thursday.

"We're asking for binding arbitration, but the district will have nothing to do with it. They just listen and say, 'No response.' A lot of the points we want to negotiate, the district says it wants to put off until the schools are reorganized," said Howard Sanborn, a Carmel High School teacher.

The school board is tentatively scheduled to make preliminary decisions next month on whether to close one or more schools in the district next year because of declining enrollment and reduced revenues.

"Another issue is involuntary transfer of teachers," Sanborn said. "We would like to be able to negotiate those transfers on the basis of some kind of rationale having to do with areas of teacher expertise."

Sanborn said the district expects reserves of "more than $100,000" which could be used to pay employee raises and to bolster educational programs. He said the district tried to "back off" from its original offer of 4.8 percent plus the 1 percent fringe benefit increase.

But Superintendent Rand denied that statement.

"We have offered 4.8 percent plus 1 percent at the bargaining table and we haven't backed off," the superintendent said.

The district will have to hire three or more additional teachers at a cost of $76,000 because student enrollment did not decline as much this year as expected, Rand indicated.

Enrollment had been anticipated as 2,245 this fall, as compared with 2,442 students last year, Rand said. Actual enrollment is 2,377, or 132 more students than predicted.

"Everything has been open at the table," Rand said. "Our budget has been open to inspection for eight months. We invited members of the teachers' association to our budget sessions. We've been meeting with them all the way through.

"Our budget is wide open to public inspection. There are no hidden dollars in any line items that would adversely affect our negotiations."

The district has estimated that each 1 percent of salary increase for all employees would cost $46,000. "We predict an ending balance this year of about $96,000," Rand said. "This has to take care of all emergencies and contingencies this year. Originally we were shooting for reserves of $180,000, or about 3 percent of the budget. That's very low.

"We need to try to meet the needs of every employee, but our district is in a real financial bind, which should come as no surprise to anyone."

After a determination that impasse has been reached in contract negotiations, a mediator will be sent to the district from the State Public Employee Relations Department in an effort to reach a compromise, said Business Manager Robert Zampatti.

"The mediator tries to get both sides together. If that doesn't work, then the next step is fact-finding and arbitration. The mediator can only make recommendations to both parties. The board can take the advice or not," Zampatti said.

Meanwhile, contract negotiations between the district and the local chapter of the California School Employees Association—classified employees—were put on the back burner because of the now-stalled negotiations with teachers.

Classified employees have requested a salary increase of 12 percent plus a 1 percent fringe benefit increase, for a total package of 13 percent.

They also have requested a union shop, a work year corresponding to that of teachers, a policy for negotiation of personnel layoffs, and a contract between the state classified employees' organization and the district to cover local workers.

"The district offered classified employees a 4.8 percent salary increase, plus a 1 percent fringe benefit increase, and a 2 percent contingency increase," Zampatti said. "They didn't accept the offer and no further meetings have been scheduled. We asked them to schedule another meeting and they said they would get back to us."

"We told the district they should meet with the teachers again before we schedule our next talks," said Dolores Getz, president of the classified employees' group. "We haven't broken off talks."

"Our big concerns are layoffs, contracting out and wages. We want a firm policy on a chance to negotiate a layoff list with the district. Contracting out for services when they already have someone who can do the job is a big concern."

"We understand that schools are in a crunch, but classified employees are the first to be cut unless we have a contract."

WARREN FISHBURN, a teacher at Carmel Middle School, said the Association of Carmel Teachers is frustrated in its attempts to reach agreement with the school district on a teacher contract for 1981-82, because teacher representatives "have been doing all the giving." (Alan McEwen photo).

Carmel School Teachers Seek Your Support

This year the teachers of the Carmel Unified School District have returned to work without a contract. On opening day, students arrived at school to find doors open and the teachers ready. By this action we are demonstrating our dedication to the community and the students. We will remain on the job as long as the District complies with the law by maintaining the working conditions of the old contract until a new one is settled.

Although we have returned to work, we are angry. Contract negotiations have stalled and now, outside mediation is required to resolve the issue. Many proposals affecting the instructional program are being made without substantial input from the professional educators of this District. These decisions will have an effect on the quality of instruction and are detrimental to our students. In addition, they generate low morale and affect teacher performance and energy.

TEACHERS ARE AWARE

Teachers are well aware that this District has been hurt by state legislation such as Serrano-Priest and Proposition 13. Teachers over the past several years have seen class size increase, school material budgets decrease, extracurricular activities and possibilities diminish, and auxiliary support facilities decline. Teachers are striving to offer the same educational opportunities to more students with fewer materials and less and less support. The Carmel teachers have met these challenges and many, many more!

TEACHER CONCERNS

In the last five years teachers have lost over 30% of their buying power. Not only are some of our finest teachers leaving the profession, but young people are not entering it.

Every year in negotiations teachers are asked to "trade kids for dollars." Class sizes continually increase, supply budgets diminish, support facilities disappear. Teachers struggle to continue the same high quality programs which have been examples in our district.

Some major decisions affecting quality of education in our classrooms, morale of teachers, and working conditions appear to be made without input from the professional educators.

The Board should be asking "How can we help our teachers?"

The following proposals have been suggested by the teachers to help restore high motivation and morale:

PROPOSAL	COST
1. Four minimum days before major holidays and end of semester for benefit of students, parents, and teachers.	None
2. Out-of-District arbitration for employee grievances	None
3. Extra cost of living increase depending on District balance as of June 30, 1982 when state funds have been received	No additional impact on current budget allowances
4. Life Insurance—$5,000 per employee	$1.10 per employee per month
5. Cost of living raise of 5.5%	$32,000 above current Board offer will provide this benefit for all employees
6. Benefit coverage for all dependents	Figures pending from business office

We believe funds for these modest requests are available and that the Business Manager can explain how to find them by eliminating less important expenditures.

*La Marmite sold,
Boudesseuls off to Santa Barbara*

By FLORENCE MASON

IF YOU WANT TO FIND the Boudesseuls, owners of La Marmite restaurant for the past 5½ years, look for "Chez Robert"—in Santa Barbara!

As of this writing, the exact location for their new restaurant has not been chosen; the couple will be searching for just the right place when they return from a three-week vacation in France. Robert Boudesseul said it will have 100 seats and will be in the downtown area.

Why is this well-liked couple leaving Carmel? For business reasons, only. In fact, they will retain their home here and plan to return when they retire. But for now, it is a question of "having to go further to catch more people," according to Boudesseul. "In Santa Barbara there is more chance for a big location at less cost per square foot."

La Marmite became a three-star restaurant in the Mobile Restaurant Guide while the Boudesseuls owned it, with Mrs. Boudesseul doing much of the cooking; they retained that rating for the past three years.

The new owner of La Marmite — Jack M. George — is putting a long-time interest into the forefront of his life. He has been working in real estate since settling in Carmel Valley 10 years ago; now a lifelong interest in cooking and in the restaurant business has propelled him into proprietorship of the restaurant.

He said that his family had been in that field for many years and that he has done quite a lot of cooking, primarily for civic clubs. He is especially active with Kiwanis and with Los Pobres, a small Carmel Valley men's club that puts on a charitable event each year — the Bull's Head barbecue.

George will not be doing any of the cooking at La Marmite. For that important role he has hired Gwen Gilbert and she has been working for two months with Mrs. Boudesseul in La Marmite's kitchen, learning the menu. Mrs. Gilbert has more than nine years' experience, including work with the U.S. Forest Service and Northern Arizona University. She now lives in Pebble Beach.

George, who is married and has two children, lives in Carmel Valley. Delighted with La Marmite as it is, he does not plan to make any changes. One of the members of the Business License and Code Review Board asked if the wine list would remain the same and George assured him it would. The response was: "Perfect!"

Everything you ever wanted to know about sandcastles is in a book now available at The Thunderbird Book Store in The Barnyard.

The beautifully illustrated text includes descriptions of famous castles in various countries and even scale models of some. There is also a chapter on the art of building sandcastles — a very practical how-to section.

With Carmel's famous sandcastle building contest coming up next month (if we knew the date, we still couldn't reveal it!) this 1981 book could be a runaway best seller. My only criticism is that except for a very brief mention in the text, Carmel is not featured. Pictures highlight contests on the east coast and on Southern California beaches. Other than that, it's a beauty.

Among the many awards won by local hostilities was a new one presented to the La Playa Hotel last month. It was given by the Roquefort Cheese Association "for excellence of cuisine."

Accepting the award — a bronze plaque given to only 10 or 12 recipients throughout the country each year — were owner Bud Allen and Chef Camilo Viray.

"We're excited about the business. And we really care about the things that everyone who lives in Carmel cares about — keeping it the way it is. We want our store to fit in and be acceptable, in line with the city's standards. Also, we will welcome, especially, the Carmel residents who patronized the store in the past."

Those were welcome words heard recently by the Business License and Code Review Board. They were spoken by Jim Genone for himself and his wife, Michelle, new owners of Camera Craft, a store that has been on Ocean between San Carlos and Dolores for many years.

There won't be any substantial changes — just some fresh paint and new display cases. Cameras, film and related items will continue to be sold. (If Sandy Swain, planning commission member on the board, was successful in "planting a little seed" in Genone's mind, there just might be a new sign, too.)

The Genones used to live in Carmel and owned property here. Then they moved to the San Francisco Bay area, where they owned and operated several stores. Their home has been in Sausalito for the last five years and their main activity there was a burlwood store. The photography field is new to both of them as a business but not as an avocation.

The decision to return to this area took shape as a desire to settle down and raise their two young sons here — to re-establish their roots. They are living in the Valley until they can find a home large enough for the family.

It's good news that the Sarets — owners of Camera Craft for the last three years — are staying in Carmel. Amy Saret told me that she needs "a break" and has no specific plans for a while. Eventually, she would like to put her master's degree in psychology to work.

The Sarets have a son, Jason, who is a junior at Stevenson. Their daughter, Elizabeth, wrote a sports column for the Pine Cone/Outlook during her senior year in high school. She is now a freshman at the University of Southern California.

My first lunch at the Robata Grill and Sake Bar in The Barnyard was delightful. Tucked in on the lower level at the north end of the complex, this newly expanded restaurant offers both hot and cold specialties and a pleasant ambience. It was one of those marvelous sunny days in Carmel and we sat outside in the patio. I noticed that there were a number of reflecting heaters high up on the sides of the patio; dining there even on cool nights could be comfortable.

Miso (soybean) soup is one of the specialties and it starts off most meals. Hot and very good. I tried shrimp and vegetable tempura on rice; it was piping hot and hearty. Others were having beef and broccoli salad, sole, or the Japanese garden salad. All very nice, while we sat under huge paper umbrellas. When you go, plan to relax; the service is unhurried, although not inattentive.

Lee Chamberlin, executive secretary of the Carmel Business Association, had an unusual vacation in Seattle. Why did she go there? "Just for fun!" And what is her idea of fun? Baseball!

"I went to a Mariners' game. They were only 1½ games out of first place. If they get into the playoffs, I'll be flown to Seattle and will sit in the owner's box!"

Jerry Winters told the Business License and Code Review Board that he and his wife, Joan, are "winding down" their business interests in Carmel. What that means for them is that they now have ONLY three local businesses: the Winters Art Gallery on Dolores, Joan's Boutique on Lincoln and — now — their Jerry and Joan Gallery in the Lobos Lodge courtyard. This newest enterprise replaces their Robert John Shop at the same location. The Winters' sweater and dress shop closed earlier this year.

The new gallery is for the sale of paintings, sculpture and related art items. That's what it says, prosaically, on the application for a business license. But their plans are exciting — new originals, introduction of new artists and sculptors. "We'll have museum-quality originals," Winters told me. More, later...

water reaches the top of the cones."

The second part of the experiment involves the placement of an injection trench containing a pipeline, which would release water into the aquifer through percolation. The pipeline would be placed about six feet underground, and would run for about 25 feet experimentally, Ms. Krebs said.

The principle would be the same as for the injection well, but instead of forming a cone, the pipeline would create a mound-shaped fresh water barrier, she said.

"We'll run one test after the other, so the effects of one don't interfere with the other. We will use the monitor wells to measure the depth of the water table and to test the recharge rate."

The test must be completed not later than Jan. 1 because the Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency plans to build an interceptor pipeline in the same area by then. Total amount of water which will be used in the test is not more than one acre foot, Ms. Krebs said.

CURRENT CAPACITY of the California-American Water Co. system is about 20,000 ac. ft. per year, with current usage about 16,000 ac. ft. A recent study by D. W. Kelley & Associates estimates water demand on the Monterey Peninsula will reach 33,000 ac. ft. by the year 2020.

The injection system for increasing the storage capacity of the Seaside aquifer would only be used during "wet" years when there is an excess of water flowing from the Carmel River into the sea.

A study completed recently for the water management district recommended that no water be drawn from the Carmel Valley aquifer for recharge of the Seaside aquifer unless the Carmel River is flowing at Schulte Bridge or well data indicate that the Carmel Valley aquifer is "brim full."

Water used to recharge the Seaside aquifer would be drawn from the Canada de la Segunda pipeline during winter months of "wet" years, when there is excess spillage in the San Clemente Dam and when the Carmel Valley aquifer is fully recharged, according to a feasibility study prepared for the water management district by WWD Corp. of Monterey and hydrologist John Logan of Carmel.

Source of water for the Canada de la Segunda pipeline is the reservoir behind San Clemente Dam, which provides roughly 60 percent of the flow, and Carmel Valley wells, which provide about 40 percent, said John Millington, engineer with California-American Water Co.

The project would siphon off excess water which would normally spill over the dam, but would not eliminate the flow entirely, Millington said. "I don't think you would even notice any effect on the Carmel River below the dam," he said.

The study by WWD Corp. indicates that some 2,300 ac. ft. per year will be available about half the time from the Carmel River excess, which would be used for recharge.

Even if an effective underground injection system for the Seaside aquifer is developed, and if the district proceeds with plans to build a small dam on the Carmel River, restoration of the health of the Carmel River is not assured, according to Ms. Krebs.

"As it is now, we have just barely enough water coming from well extractions in Carmel Valley," she said. "But that pumping draws down the water table so the river doesn't flow and it kills off the vegetation along the river."

"The result of that is more erosion of the riverbanks and siltation of the channel. The only way to restore the river is to build a large dam on San Clemente Creek of about 60,000 ac. ft. and then take all our water needs from the dam."

"Then we would use the Carmel Valley wells only during drought years, the water table would rise and the river would flow. Building a small dam will give us a reserve for our present needs, but not for the future."

Water management district directors have not yet decided on what size dam they would like to build on the Carmel River. Director Ed Lee of Carmel Valley has proposed a small dam of about 20,000 ac. ft. storage capacity.

Once directors decide the size of a dam, approval would have to be obtained from the State Department of Water Resources for plans to maintain the steelhead fishery, and voters would have to approve a bond measure to finance construction.

City begins laborious job of overhauling General Plan

THE CITY OF Carmel begins the task of revising its General Plan tomorrow (Friday) when the newly-appointed General Plan Advisory Committee meets with representatives of Earth Metrics, the Burlingame consulting firm under contract to update the plan.

The initial meeting, set for 1 p.m. at Carmel City Hall, is the first in a series of eight meetings to formulate general plan revisions, before the new plan is subjected to public hearings before the Planning Commission and City Council.

Projected date for adoption of the revised plan and the ordinances necessary for its implementation is June 28, 1982.

Members of the General Plan Advisory Committee appointed last week by the City Council are Gordon Campbell, Jean Grace, Donald Davidson, John Eatherton, Dorothy Lillard, Leslie Gross and Jane Mayer.

Alternates to the seven-member advisory panel are Eugene Hammond and Alan Williams. All are Carmel residents.

Carmel Planning Director Robert Griggs feels the revision of the general plan is the best shot the community has at resolution of some longstanding problems, including traffic congestion, lack of parking facilities, and overly intensive commercial uses.

"Parking and traffic are some of the most crucial issues that must be addressed in the general plan update," Griggs said. "That's where we are really having some problems."

"Another issue that needs to be addressed is the question of low-income housing. We are practically at the limit of our water allocation now, so we propose to settle the requirement to provide more low-cost housing with allowing second-kitchens."

"The problem becomes how to allow low-income housing and stay within our water allocation."

The issue of second kitchens has been a controversial one for years. Legalization of second kitchens is proposed in the Carmel Area Local Coastal Program. Housing studies have indicated Carmel will need 550 second kitchens to meet low-income housing requirements in the next two decades.

The role of the General Plan Advisory Committee is "to serve as a sounding board for the consultant's reports and as contributors of concepts to be explored during the general plan revision."

"A primary purpose of the committee should be to promote wide public participation by citizens of the community in the public workshops scheduled as part of the general plan revision process," according to a description released by the planning department.

That means, explained Griggs, that there will be "an exchange of ideas between the committee and the consultant. The committee hopefully will have some foresight so they can do more than just react to what the consultant proposes."

Revision of the general plan is mandated by state law, Griggs explained. The last revision of the Carmel general plan was in 1973—the only revision of the document since it was adopted in the 1960s.

"If it's done properly, the updated general plan will give the community some goals to seek instead of just something to be critical of," Griggs said.

The gridding director hopes the general plan revision will do away with the "fragmentation" in land uses and consolidate planning and zoning goals into a single, workable plan to guide future land use.

"One of the tasks of the committee is to come up with ways to stay within our resources," Griggs said. "I wouldn't look forward to any increases in intensity of land uses, for example."

If Griggs had his "druthers," he would like to see the revised general plan scale down some commercial uses in portions of Carmel, to reduce traffic congestion and demand for more parking facilities.

"I would like to reduce some of the commercial area and make it into apartments, condominiums or motels with parking," Griggs said. "We could reduce the extent of those commercial areas that aren't built up yet by changing the zoning on some of the vacant lands north of 5th."

"The town is choking itself to death with parking and traffic problems. There's no

CBA directors to meet General Plan consultants

The Carmel Business Association will meet with the firm of consultants hired by the city of Carmel to work on the General Plan on Thursday Oct. 1 at 8 a.m. at La Playa Hotel, Eighth and Camino Real, Carmel. It will provide the program for the regular monthly meeting of the CBA board of directors.

The General Plan will provide guidelines and policies for growth of Carmel for the next 20 years.

All CBA members and interested citizens are urged to attend the breakfast meeting.

For more information, phone the CBA office, 624-2522.

other way we can solve it; we don't have the land. We can mitigate it by putting in uses that are less intensive, that generate less traffic."

Griggs said he hopes the revision of the general plan will do away with the conception that "motels are bad and shops are better," because that assumption is the origin of much of Carmel's traffic and parking problem, he feels.

"If you went all apartments and all motels, you would do away with a lot of the traffic problem," Griggs said.

Another function of the general plan update will be to bring zoning in the recently-annexed areas of Carmel, which are now under county zoning standards, into conformity with city standards.

"I hope it puts out some brushfires," Griggs said. "For the last 10 years, all I've been able to do is resolve little issues that are in conflict with other zoning issues. Rather than fragmented planning, you're talking about a coherent whole."

Two experts voice concern about CV water quality

"YOU'RE AT A crossroads. Do you want to urbanize or do you want to stay rural?"

Monterey County Environmental Sanitarian Walter Wong challenged the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association to make that decision at a membership meeting last Wednesday.

"There are two directions the Valley can go," Wong told the CVPOA. "If you want an urban area you will not be able to do it

'The solution to pollution is dilution' without a sewer system. If you're not going to have a sewer system then you'll have to have septic systems."

Wong said he is concerned about contamination of the groundwater table in Carmel Valley from the use of septic systems, which now number 4,000 in the Valley.

His concern was echoed by Kenneth Jones, executive officer of the Regional Water Quality Control Board, who said: "If development occurs as it has in the past in the Valley, then we're in for some serious water quality problems in Carmel Valley."

"The important decision is to sewer or not to sewer the Valley. If you decide you never want to put sewers in the Valley then you have to make some attendant land use decisions."

"We don't want to set up Carmel Valley to be sewer, but we could force it by not being prepared," Jones said. "I don't think you can presume the Valley has to be sewer. If you make the decision that it doesn't, then you'll have to have the guts to carry it out."

"In my experience, most supervisors tend to spot-zone."

Both water quality officials were invited to speak to the CVPOA on problems of water contamination in Carmel Valley, as they relate to development and environmental carrying capacity.

Jones remarked that state and federal grants for water quality projects are to be "phased out," which will mean that land use decisions which affect water and environmental quality will become more critical.

IN ADDITION to the approximately 4,000 septic tanks in Carmel Valley, there are "numerous" small lots of record which may be developed with septic tanks, Jones said.

"There are proposals for 32 subdivision projects in the Valley, and that means the demand for water is 2,000 acre feet for these projects," Jones said. "We have increasing concern over individual withdrawal of ground water."

"There is a continuing demand for more housing but the place to put it is becoming less and less. All of these things require serious land use decisions, but the Regional Water Quality Control Board does not have land use authority."

Jones said the loss of as much as 40,000 ac. ft. of water to the sea each year from the Carmel River is of particular concern, since that water, if trapped behind a dam, could be released to flush and cleanse the Carmel Valley aquifer.

Wong said the county monitors water quality in the Valley very carefully, with special attention to nitrate concentrations which result from the use of septic tanks.

"We are also beginning to find concentrations of ammonium in the water," Wong said. "That means it's a good time to start thinking about whether we are going to run into problems in the future."

Because of concern about ground water contamination, the county has undertaken a joint analysis of ground water quality in the Valley with the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, Wong noted.

"We also asked the Regional Water Quality Control Board to look at their standards and we asked for a study of the holding capacity of Carmel Valley. The basic question was: 'What did Mother Nature design your area to take?'"

"Right now, 10 percent of the Carmel Valley aquifer is composed of water from septic tanks. You must decide how much more you want to put into the aquifer."

Jones said construction of another dam on the Carmel River could enhance water quality in the Carmel Valley aquifer.

"The solution to pollution is dilution," Jones said. "With increased stream flow from a dam and recharging at the proper time of the year, you could improve water quality. You need to flush out the aquifer; it's nature's way."

CVPOA PRESIDENT Jack Sassard said after the meeting that the group intends to use information on water quality to take a position on growth limits in the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

The Master Plan is under revision, after the original document was successfully challenged by a lawsuit brought by the City of Carmel. The environmental impact report for the Master Plan is undergoing a public review process.

"We don't know what criteria we have right now," Sassard said. "My feeling is that the CVPOA, on the basis of findings in the groundwater study now underway, should take a position on how to revise the Master Plan."

"If we had a dam with a consistent, controlled flow, we could recharge and rewash the aquifer. We don't need a large dam; we need about 20,000 ac. ft. of water."

"The growth-inducing aspect of a dam is not the way to control growth," Sassard said. "The Master Plan is."

Wine and Food Society

presents 98th

Grand Dinner

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

WHEN THE Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the Wine and Food Society presents a "Grand Dinner" you can be sure that the evening will be filled with delightful surprises as well as the very best in both wine and food.

Such was the occasion last Thursday evening when the organization presented its 98th grand dinner, "An Evening at Triples."

Guests enjoyed the champagne hour in the garden at Triples Restaurant in Monterey where the event was held.

The dinner was co-chaired by Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Railton and Mrs. Alfred Fry.

Sommelier was Gilbert F. Craig of Pebble Beach.

The delicious dinner was prepared under the supervision of Thom Thomasser, chef de cuisine. Stephen Tilney was maitre d'hotel and Henning Larsen was chef de Patissier.

The dinner was the third of four held by the group each year. Their next event will be the annual Christmas Dinner which will be held at the Beach and Tennis Club in Pebble Beach.

Other events enjoyed by the group during the year include wine tours and/or wine picnics.

Headquarters for the International Wine and Food Society is in London, England.

ONE CANTALOUPE—$6.00!

From what I hear, Japan is one of the most beautiful places in the world to visit. Just make sure you have plenty of the "green stuff" with you.

One lady who's not complaining is Carmelite Rena Toliver, who returned recently from a three-week tour of Japan and says that it was worth every cent — and more!

Rena, who teaches nutrition and child development at Hartnell College in Salinas, started her tour in Tokyo and then, via bus, train and air, traveled to the southern tip of Japan and back to Tokyo.

Last year, Rena went to China, which in many ways is behind the times, "But," said Rena, "Japan is incredibly modern — it's electronically run!"

She said that the countryside was clean, green and beautiful and that the privately-owned trains, which are quite plush, are never so much as one minute late. "Some of the trains are so packed that they actually have 'professional pushers'," said Rena, adding that her group did not have that problem.

The group also visited a department store in Osaka. The store had just opened and Rena was surprised to see all the store clerks lined up and bowing to the group as they walked in.

But food is very high in Japan and a normal dinner costs $20-$35. One cup of coffee is $1.50, and a refill is the same amount. But six dollars for a cantaloup — good grief!

Japan has its own beef, which is unusually good, according to Rena, who said that obesity is almost unheard of in Japan due to the diet of the Japanese people. "Ten percent of their calories come from fat whereas 40 percent of ours come from fat," Rena explained, adding that the Japanese also have one of the lowest incidents of heart disease in the world. She said that America is third in the world in heart disease.

Another interesting tidbit on diet is that New Zealand now ships milk to Japan, and the school children who have access to it are now growing much taller.

No jet lag or sake hang-over for Rena. . . she feels terrific and is already thinking about next year's trip!

OH, THOSE BUSY ERICKSON GIRLS

The Erickson girls are packing again! After two years at Williams College in Williamstown, Mass., Amalia (Molly) will be taking her junior year "abroad" at U.C. Berkeley as an economics/English major. Molly worked at a popular Carmel Valley restaurant this summer and created the handsome calligraphy for the restaurant's advertising.

REUNION TIME IN SAN FRANCISCO

They're looking for you!

Peninsula residents who graduated or attended San Francisco State Teacher's Normal School, San Francisco State Teacher's College, San Francisco State College, or as the name has finally become, San Francisco State University are invited to a reunion.

The San Francisco State University Alumni Assoc. will hold the reunion in October at the Presidio Officer's Club in San Francisco.

HOUSE WARMING AND HAWAII FOR VELMA AND TED

It's been an exciting month for Velma and Ted Balestreri. Before a week-long vacation to Hawaii with their two children, the couple was treated to a surprise housewarming at their very own home in Pebble Beach. The Balestreri family has lived in the house for about a year and a half but just recently finished remodeling and redecorating, so their friends decided it was time to give them a proper welcome.

The big question was, how to get them out of the house so the chefs could set up a fabulous buffet (including fantastic ice carvings) — and Mike Marotta and his band could do their thing.

To the rescue came Mr. and Mrs. Hank Laskin (Hank is a gourmet cook) who invited the Balestreris and their business partners and friends, Bella and Bert Cutino, to brunch.

"That was the longest brunch I've ever attended," laughed Bella. "We did everything we could to stall for time, including taking a drive through Pebble Beach."

And when the Cutinos finally drove the Balestreris home, about 100 friends were there to give them a rousing welcome. "Velma immediately broke out in hives and Ted was in a state of shock," said Bella. "It was worth all the sneaking about just to see the look on their faces."

The hors d'oeuvres included oysters and clams on the half shell followed by a New York steak dinner with all the trimmings and, of course, lots of pasta.

The six couples who planned the surprise were the Cutinos, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. George Zarounian, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ekizian and the Hank Laskins.

Happiness is!

UNITED NATIONS ASSOC. GARDEN PARTY

The Monterey Bay Chapter of the United Nations Associations will hold a garden party for new and prospective members Sept. 27, 3 p.m.-5 p.m. at the C. Mark Thomas' Carmel Valley home (17 Scarlett Road).

Guest speaker will be Robert von Pagenhardt, a professor at the Naval Postgraduate School. Pagenhardt, who returned recently from a Futurist conference in Vienna, will speak on the topic "The UN in 2000," as projected at the conference.

Hospitality chairmen Mrs. Tom Houston, Mrs. Robert von Pagenhardt and Pearl Ross will be assisted by Beth Keenan, Mrs. Dale Eberle and Mrs. Jonathan Rigdon.

Anyone interested in solving global problems by cooperation and negotiation between interdependent nations is cordially invited. There is no charge.

BEER AND HAMBURGER SOCIETY CELEBRATES

Some organizations are great. Some are greater. And falling in the latter category is the "Beer and Hamburger Society of America" whose mighty founder is none other than the mighty Mick — McKee "Micky" Mhoon.

rules, no board of directors and no posh parties — in fact "fancy" is a "no-no."

The whole thing started in April, 1974, when Mickey and his wife, Georgia, decided to gather a small group of friends for a picnic. There are now 22 members, and they try to keep their get-togethers casual and fun. They usually gather at each other's homes for dinner, a barbecue — whatever, but they do hold one big annual event — a Labor Day picnic.

This year's event was held at Stillwater Cover and everyone brought his favorite covered dish to go with the barbecued hamburgers (steaks?). And naturally there was plenty of beer — martinis in a shaker?

Among those gathering for the fun were Doug and Mary-Margaret Graham, Stoddard Johnston, Dick and Jane Murtland, Jerry and Mary Martin, Dee and Fred Farr, Lucille Huntington, Jack and Mary Julian, Alex and Nona Heid, Bob and Dee Robertson and Don and Mary-May Altenburg.

GRANT'S GRADUATION MEANS PARTY TIME

What common factor links Lucille Huntington and Superman? Energy, that's what! This lovely lady is always on the move. This past week, she headed for Los Angeles for son Grant's graduation from the Art Center College of Design in Pasadena. Traveling with Lucille were her son, Chris, and also son, Tom, and his wife, Donna.

Following the graduation ceremony, the entire class, along with friends and relatives (including parents from Japan and Texas) gathered at the Pasadena Holiday Inn for a bit of hoopla. The following day, Donna's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth LaVoy, who live in La Crescenta, celebrated their 40th anniversary, so actually another party was in order.

Then on Sunday, the entire group trooped to the home of Mrs. Robert Baker for a big family reunion — Mrs. Baker — Lois — is Lucille's identical twin! The two sisters were in showbusiness for many years and were the first Toni Twins (hair perms, remember?). They also have a fascinating chapter in the book Twins on Twins, which was written by another set of identical twins, Kathryn McLaughlin Abbe and Frances McLaughlin Gill. The book has just been released so get your copy and learn all Lucille's secrets!

Another big "Huntington" event will take place this coming

Saturday. . . Grant's birthday celebration, which will be held at Lucille's Pebble Beach home. Grant will reach the ripe old age of 26 (on Sept. 26) so plans are to make it a bash to remember — lots of the bubbly, a buffet (Lucille doesn't have to slave in the kitchen for this one) and dancing to "No Respect" a rock group from Santa Cruz.

Grant, a commercial photographer, is delighted that the four years of school are over. He already has numerous credits in his field, including color ads for International Time Magazine. Grants says he loves Carmel but that the big city life is more in keeping with his work, so he'll probably work out of San Francisco.

HARVEST PARTY AT SMITH'S JACKS PEAK HOME

To welcome the fall season Philip and Jesma Smith invited a few friends to their Jacks Peak home for a "Harvest" party. The get-together included delicious food and camaraderie among friends.

Jesma is also enjoying entertaining her houseguest, Mrs. Jamie Davidson, who is visiting from Fresno. Mrs. Davidson, who writes a food column for The Fresno Bee, is also a good friend of Smith's daughter, Becky Flavin (wife of Sean) so the three women are having a jolly good time — including a visit to see another of Jesma's friends, Mrs. Arthur Delvin, whose son, Bob, wrote the beautiful book giving the history of the Pebble Beach Concours d' Elegance.

JIM AND "MIKE"

HOME FROM EUROPE

Europe seems to be the very "in" place this season and many of our local travelers are heading in that direction via tours through Monterey Peninsula College — with Heinz Hubler at the helm as tour guide.

The recent trip was a first for Jim and Clarice (Mike) Pruitt who left a week ahead of the tour so they could have time to do a bit of exploring in Holland (Amsterdam and Rotterdam) and Brussels.

From Brussels they took the train to Lucerne, where they caught up with the tour, which included two weeks in Switzerland and one week in Italy.

Mike said there were so many beautiful things to see that it was hard to pinpoint one special thing, but she did admit that seeing the famous Matterhorn on a beautiful sunny day was indeed a treat.

She said that another highlight of the trip was a lawn party at the home of Mr. Hubler's mother in Thun, Switzerland.

Other locals making part or all of the tour included Wilbert and Rosemary Manke, Willard Neumann, Ronald Manson, Dorothy Kiesler, Helen Whitcomb, Thelma Stone, Mary Jane Moore, Vu Tam and Paulette Ich, Mrs. Susie Martz and her sister, Mrs. Shirley Darling, Gertrude Chappell, Betty Fowlston, Mrs. George Payne and her daughter, Joan Stotler, and Jay and Roberta Shudde.

POTPOURRI

Belated birthday wishes to Alan Funt who celebrated his big day on Sept. 16. . . and congratulations to Sandy Swain and Natalie Murray who founded the Lamplighter School in Dallas, Texas many years ago. The school was part of a television special titled "The Future: What's Next" show on Sept. 15. The segment on the children showed how computers are used as a training and learning tool. . . and it's good news from the Ansel Adams Carmel Highlands home. Ansel, who recently passed out in a local restaurant and had to be hospitalized for a few days, is up and about and doing just fine. So well in fact, that he and his lovely Virginia invited former senator Gaylord Nelson to be their house guest last weekend. Nelson is now president of the Wilderness Society in Washington, D.C.

Ansel is also serving as the honorary chairman of the newly-formed Monterey County Arts Committee. Chairman of the committee is Jim Alinder who is also director of the Friends of Photography in Carmel. . . and more birthday greetings go out to Doug Peterson (Sept. 23) and to Mayor Barney Lalolo (Sept. 24). Are those balloons and birthday cakes at City Hall today?

And so goes another week. . . call Terri Lee — 625-4431.

All the bankers are ladies at FIB

By ROBERT MISKIMON

THERE HAVEN'T BEEN any male pickets outside First Interstate Bank in Carmel chanting "Equality Now," even though the staff inside—including the manager—is all female.

And there probably won't be, since the unusual personnel makeup is the result of coincidence and not design, says Manager Judy Brooke.

"It just happened by accident," she said. "We had an assistant in the loan department who was a male, but he left Aug. 1 and since then we have not had a man on our staff."

'Actually, I'd like to have a man around. They're handy.'

Ms. Brooke was promoted to manager of the Carmel First Interstate Bank branch (formerly United California Bank) on June 1, succeeding John Bachus. When that change occurred, the shift toward a distinctly female presence at the bank was more noticeable, she said.

"When I first became manager, I was overwhelmed by the number of compliments I got—from both men and women," Ms. Brooke said. "I had a few women saying they wanted to bank at our office because we have a female manager."

"People really don't seem to have noticed that we have no men in the bank. It's only been about a month since our only male employee left, but there hasn't been anything negative said."

Ms. Brooke was assistant manager of the Carmel branch for two years before her promotion to manager in June. She started her banking career eight years ago as a management trainee with a bank in Arizona.

She is the only female branch manager of a First Interstate Bank on the Monterey Peninsula, although there are other female bank managers in the area.

ALTHOUGH HIRING is done at local FIB branches, the all-female staff in Carmel resulted from supply and demand, more than anything else.

"Most of the staff members in our bank have worked their way up," she said. "It is very difficult to find men who want to be tellers. They just don't apply. Here in

Carmel, I haven't had any males apply as tellers.

"I think that's because many men don't want to take entry-level positions. Actually, I'd like to have a man around. They're handy. Just the other day, I wanted to have a man here so we could turn off the piped-in music."

Ms. Brooke says she doesn't concern herself with the sex of a job applicant—only his or her competence. Most of the employees in the Carmel FIB branch are transferees from other branches, and one has been in the local branch since 1967.

"We have a really outstanding staff now," she said. "When I looked for an assistant manager recently, there were no qualified males who applied."

"I try to hire from within, and when we can't do that, we sometimes use local employment agencies."

An all-female bank was founded recently in Los Angeles, but Ms. Brooke feels women can serve a useful function within the corporate structure of traditional banks.

"There are already a lot of women bank officers who empathize with women, anyway," she observed. "But women bank managers are still rare. When I started in banking eight years ago, it was an oddity to find a woman loan officer, but that has changed."

"I have seen minorities and women sometimes pushed further than they should have been, to the point that it's detrimental to the person. It takes time to move into the higher-level management positions. Twenty years ago, there weren't any women in any important banking positions."

"I feel the best person who fits the job is the one who should have it."

The highest-ranked female employee of First Interstate Bank is head of personnel in the main Los Angeles office, but "there's still a big concentration of women at the lower levels of banking, in positions like operations officers, assistant managers and loan officers."

So far, public reaction to the all-female bank staff has been muted, Ms. Brooke said. "It's mostly been just teasing."

Constance Willert marries Tom Beardsley in Carmel

Constance Marilyn Willert and Thomas Roderick Beardsley, both of Carmel, were united in marriage at the Carmel Mission Basilica, Sept. 19. Father Richard H. Fennessy officiated.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Beardsley of Fresno and formerly of Carmel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose an empire cut gown with a Princess Anne neckline. The gown featured a heavily beaded lace yoke, fitted sleeves and a chiffon skirt with old fashioned lace on the hemline.

A fresh gardenia was attached to her Princess Anne hat. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and gardenias.

Maid of honor was Tracy Heniford of Carmel.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carol Pires of Pacific Grove, sister of the bride; Miss Sonya Trussell of Fremont; Miss Jodi Turner; and Mrs. Kim Swithenbank, both of Chico.

Flower girl was Christine Pires, the bride's niece.

Best man was Harry Goulding of Berkeley.

Ushers were Gary St. Denis of Marina del Rey; Terry Hat of Golden, Colo.; Ralph Martini of San Francisco; and Kevin Willert, the bride's brother, from Houston, Texas.

Ring bearer was Danny Murphy, the groom's nephew.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Carmel High School, received her B.A. degree in social welfare and child development from California State University in Chico. She is employed as office manager for Reginald F. Pires, CPA, in Pacific Grove.

The bridegroom was graduated from Carmel High School in 1971 and received his B.A. in business administration from the Maharishi International University in Fairfield, Iowa in 1979. He is employed by Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., stock brokers in Monterey.

Following the ceremony, a champagne reception and buffet for about 300 guests was held at the Beach and Tennis Club in Pebble Beach.

The bride and bridegroom's parents were also married at the Mission and the bride's parents attended the wedding of the bridegroom's parents 20 years ago. The newlyweds have known each other since early childhood.

Following a honeymoon in Mexico (Mazatlan and Puerto Vallarta) the couple will reside in Carmel.

Elizabeth Mackey weds newsman Richard Roberts

Elizabeth Jean Mackay of Berkeley and Richard Eric Roberts of Walnut Creek were united in marriage at the Immaculate Conception Church, Vancouver B.C. at 4:15 p.m. on Sept. 14. Reverend J. A. Leahy officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. A. Morton Mackay of Vancouver.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Roberts of Carmel.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Brad Flodin. Best man was Kurt Roberts, brother of the groom from North Hollywood. Usher was Brad Flodin of Abbotsford, B.C.

The bride attended the Convent of the Sacred Heart and the University of British Columbia, Vancouver. She is a writer with the U.S. Leasing Corp., in San Francisco.

The bridegroom, a 1969 graduate of Carmel High School, received a B.A. in English and an M.A. in journalism from U.C. Berkeley. He is now an advertising copywriter for Shaklee Corp. in San Francisco. The bridegroom once worked as a reporter for the Carmel Pine Cone/Outlook.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of a family friend in Vancouver.

After a honeymoon to Yosemite the newlyweds will reside in Walnut Creek.

Robin Soule to get NY degree

Robin G. Soule of Carmel Valley will be awarded an Associate in Science Regents External Degree by the Board of Regents of The University of the State of New York at the annual commencement ceremony Sept. 24 in Chancellors Hall at the State Education Building in Albany.

The class of 1981 includes more than 2800 graduates who have earned associate and baccalaureate degrees in liberal arts, business or nursing.

Sanitary District answers charges in Pebble Beach position paper

By ROBERT MISKIMON

THE CARMEL SANITARY District argued its case for consolidation with the Pebble Beach Sanitary District in a lengthy "position paper" released this week.

The nine-page document is intended to counter "serious discrepancies and inaccuracies" about the proposed merger presented in a recent position paper adopted by the Pebble Beach district.

The proposed merger will be considered by the Local Agency Formation Commission Sept. 29. (See related story elsewhere in this issue.)

"It is in the best interests of the taxpayers of each district to consolidate the maintenance and operation, management, and policy-making functions of their districts into a single entity," according to the paper.

"Consolidation would result in an immediate reduction of costs by removing the added expense associated with two boards of directors, two district managers, two fiscal officers, two legal counsels, two district offices, duplicate utility costs, and duplicate maintenance equipment."

The Pebble Beach Sanitary District operates its own collection lines but contracts with the Carmel Sanitary District for treatment and disposal. Each district has its own, elected, five-member board of directors.

According to the Carmel Sanitary District, actual user fees in the Carmel district are less than those in the Pebble Beach district. The former was $88.53 for the 1979-80 fiscal year; the latter was $130.56, according to the Carmel district's position paper.

The cost per resident of the Carmel Sanitary District for fiscal year 1979-80 in maintenance and operations was $57, while in the Pebble Beach Sanitary District, the cost per resident was $80, as stated in the Carmel district's position paper.

Here is a summary of the Carmel Sanitary District's response to major points raised in the Pebble Beach Sanitary District position paper:

• Pebble Beach: "Consolidation of the two districts would most likely result in a dissolution of the existing mutual operating contract. This would likely result in PBSB loss of control of its current one-third share of capacity in the present (Carmel) plant facilities."

Carmel: "PBSB is presently utilizing 660,000 gallons per day of their 800,000 gallons per day allotment in the CSD treatment facility. They are, therefore, presently at 83 percent of their total allowable flow into the treatment facility. When PBSB reaches 95 percent of their 800,000 gpd allotment, a review of the quality of effluent produced by the treatment facility will be closely scrutinized. At that time, it is possible that an immediate prohibition of the issuance of new sewer connection permits will be necessary. This condition is a requirement of CSD ordinance No. 67 adopted Aug. 9, 1976. Since this will occur whether or not consolidation takes place, the issue of 'loss of control' has absolutely no significance."

• Pebble Beach: "The present user fee schedule for a single family residence is $72 per year in CSD and $51.54 per year in PBSB. An obvious increase in cost to PBSB would result from consolidation."

Carmel: "The relationship expressed is totally in error. The total operating expense for the PBSB for the year ending June 30, 1980 was $386,846, and for the CSD $796,516. The PBSB has 2,963 equivalent residential connections while the CSD has 8,997 equivalent residential connections. Therefore, the cost for residential sewer service in the PBSB is $130.56 per year and in the CSD $88.53 per year. The $51.54 fee paid by the PBSB user is for treatment and disposal only."

• Pebble Beach: "The unit cost of treatment and disposal of 1,000 gallons of sewage has varied over the years for each district. The variance reached a peak in fiscal year 1977 when PBSB had to pay 86 cents per 1,000 gallons treated vs. 51 cents for CSD. It was only the intervention of state authorities which caused the change in the operating agreement to achieve equitable costing. This indicates that a consolidated board of this type would have no political loyalty to Pebble Beach taxpayers."

Carmel: "This contains totally misleading statements. The original agreement dated March 27, 1969 for the shared use of the treatment facility was negotiated in good faith by both parties. Renegotiation was requested by PBSB. Committees were formed to study the issue. The result was the July 1, 1978 amendment to the original agreement. There was no 'intervention' by state authorities involved, but merely renegotiation by the two districts. The unit cost for treatment and disposal of wastewater is now identical in each of the two districts."

• Pebble Beach: "Subsequent to the State Water Quality Control Board establishment of the Carmel Bay Area of Special Biological Significance, the Carmel Sanitary District board passed ordinances precluding new annexations or new connections. A consolidation of the two districts could subject the planned growth of the Del Monte Forest to the control of an outside agency by reason of those ordinances."

Carmel: "There would not be any 'outside agency.' All rules, regulations, laws and policies would be identical for all users within the newly-formed district. Geographic location within the new district would have absolutely no effect upon development or service to any individual user or developer. Everyone would be treated exactly the same. This is a requirement of the law governing such districts. Directors would be elected from the whole area. It is even possible that all members of the board could be residents of Del Monte Forest."

• Pebble Beach: "A statistical examination of the annual operating costs of each district indicates that the annual percentage increased costs of CSD exceed the norm of inflation, while those of PBSB are below."

Carmel: "No evidence exists to prove this statement. To the contrary, the CSD has published a paper utilizing exhibits from each of the two districts' 1979 audit reports, which illustrates the exact opposite of the position taken by the PBSB. Treatment and disposal costs are identical in each district. The CSD is below the cost of PBSB in maintenance and operation of the collection system, whether calculated per resident, per million gallons transmitted, or per connection. CSD administrative costs are less than PBSB on a per resident comparison, per million gallons of wastewater comparison, or per connection comparison."

• Pebble Beach: "The acquisition of the assets of the Pebble Beach Sanitary District by the Carmel Sanitary District could result

LAFCO to hear merger arguments

To merge or not to merge?

That is the question the Monterey County Local Agency Formation Commission will consider Sept. 29 with respect to the Pebble Beach and Carmel Sanitary Districts.

The agency is scheduled to hold two public hearings at 7:30 p.m. in the Board of Supervisors chambers in the county courthouse, Salinas.

The first concerns the proposed consolidation of the two sanitary districts, and the second concerns the proposed reorganization of the Pebble Beach sanitary and fire protection districts into a new agency.

Both proposals are mutually exclusive, according to LAFCO director Mike Johnson. That means LAFCO may recommend one proposal, the other, or neither to the Board of Supervisors, but not both.

Residents of Del Monte Forest have petitioned LAFCO for a reorganization of County Service Area 42—which provides fire protection—with the Pebble Beach Sanitary District into a new, community service district.

There are no comparable service districts now in Monterey County, but that type of district would be compatible with the needs of Pebble Beach residents, Johnson said.

The petition for reorganization of the two districts was signed by more than 400 Pebble Beach residents, and was supported by a resolution passed by the Pebble Beach Sanitary District Board of Directors.

Diametrically opposed to the Pebble Beach petition is a proposal by the Carmel Sanitary District for merger of the two sanitary districts.

The Carmel Sanitary District has published figures which estimate a savings of $110,000 to residents of both districts from a consolidation. That figure, as well as all the arguments for merger presented by the Carmel board, has been hotly disputed by the Pebble Beach board.

The 1980-81 Monterey County Grand Jury report recommended merger of the Carmel Sanitary District and the Pebble Beach Sanitary District into the Monterey Peninsula Water Management Agency.

But the water management agency opposed that suggestion on the basis it is not equipped to administer both districts under a common jurisdiction.

However, the arguments presented by the Grand Jury for merger—cost-effectiveness, simplification of structure, and the elimination of political squabbling—have also been presented by the Carmel district for its merger proposal. The Pebble Beach and Carmel sanitary districts are separate political jurisdictions with their own elected, five-member boards of directors. The Pebble Beach district has its own sewage collection pipeline which connects to the Carmel disposal plant.

Under a contract between the two districts, the Pebble Beach Sanitary District is guaranteed up to one-third the treatment and disposal capacity of the Carmel Sanitary District plant.

After the two public hearings next Tuesday, the LAFCO board of directors may recommend one of the proposed plans to the Board of Supervisors, which must then schedule public hearings on the recommended plan within 60 days after the LAFCO recommendation.

The Board of Supervisors will then decide whether to approve the consolidation and to place the measure on the ballot for confirmation by the majority of voters in the affected areas.

Earliest possible date for a confirmation vote—if LAFCO and the supervisors approve of one of the consolidation plans—would be June of 1982.

in undesirable use and expenditure rate of such assets as contingency and construction funds."

Carmel: "Consolidation of districts is not an 'acquisition.' We know of no study having been made as to the relationship between the 'assets' of PBSB and those of the CSD. Who is acquiring the assets of whom? Actually, neither agency is acquiring the other. A consolidation of the two agencies is comparable to the people involved forming a single sanitary district as though PBSB and CSD never existed."

• Pebble Beach: "Projected savings in operation costs are fictional at best. No one can accurately predict what some future board of directors will or will not do."

Carmel: "The Carmel Sanitary District has not suggested a 'projected savings.' The savings CSD has listed have been tabulated and are not 'projected' but are real, tangible, and would exist immediately. These savings include approximately $100,000 per year and are derived from the salaries, benefits, and costs of the two boards of directors, managers, legal counsels, fiscal officers, office rentals, etc."

• Pebble Beach: "The Del Monte Forest Property Owners have petitioned LAFCO on behalf of a proposed consolidation of the Pebble Beach Sanitary District and Fire Service Area 42 in order to form a community services district with greater local control. The members of the PBSB board unanimously support this petition and oppose any consolidation with the Carmel Sanitary District which would not be in the best interest of the taxpayers of Del Monte Forest."

Carmel: "We have not seen or heard of any factual evidence justifying the statement that consolidation would not be in the best interest of the taxpayers of Del Monte Forest. We feel the reverse has been demonstrated by data developed and furnished from public information available within budgets and audit reports of the two districts."

The Altrusa Club of the Monterey Peninsula will hold its annual Tea and Silent Auction, Saturday, Sept. 26, 2-4 p.m., in the Pacific Grove Masonic Hall, Lighthouse and Congress Aves.

The proceeds of this auction will be donated to agencies assisting the aging and the handicapped throughout the Peninsula.

The gifts at the various tables will include antiques and art objects, new books, glassware and china, handmade and crocheted productions, and a special table of international wares.

Chairman is Mrs. John B. Gore of Pacific Grove. Altrusa president is Mrs. David Eaton.

Col. Phillips recalled to duty

Col. James H. Phillips, son of James H. Phillips, Sr., of Carmel, has been recalled to active duty after having retired from the service.

Col. Phillips served as commander of the U.S. Army Electronic Proving Ground, Fort Huachuca, Ariz., prior to retiring.

He was recalled to active duty because they wanted to retain him as commander.

Phillips graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, and went on to receive his master's degree from Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, in 1961.

He will now serve an additional two-year period.

His military decorations include the Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, the Joint Service Commendation Medal, the Army Commendation Medal and the Purple Heart.

Coast Guardsman Middleton assists in ship seizure

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice, Stephen M. Middleton, son of Donald F. and Lynda A. Middleton of Carmel Valley, recently participated in the seizure of a Honduran motor vessel suspected of smuggling marijuana.

He is a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Rush, homeported in Alameda.

During a routine law enforcement patrol, the cutter's helicopter spotted the suspected vessel about 150 miles southwest of San Francisco. Under International Law, the Rush conducted a "consent boarding" to check for any violations. When the boarding party found evidence, the vessel was seized and the 10 crewmembers arrested for violating U.S. laws.

The ship was suspected of being involved as a "mothership" in a narcotics smuggling operation in which 25 to 40 tons of marijuana had been transported into the U.S. The vessel was escorted to San Francisco and turned over to authorities.

A 1979 graduate of Carmel High School, Middleton joined the Coast Guard in October, 1979.

12 Scouts advance at Court of Honor

Twelve scouts from Carmel's Boy Scout Troop 3 were honored for advancement Sept. 2, at the troop's 5th Anniversary Court of Honor. The Scouts were acknowledged for earning a total of 44 awards during a three-month period. The awards included five progress awards, 24 merit badges, 10 skill awards and five other awards.

Scouts honored were Clifton Bonner, Van Crego, Addison Phillips, Chris Bowe, Conrad Lindgren, Benjamin Godfrey, John Hardin, Jeffrey Williams, Jeffrey Lewis, Christopher Tolles, Tim Williams and Daniel McLean.

On the occasion of the troop's anniversary it was noted that 40 young men have belonged to the troop since Aug. 31, 1976. This figure includes 16 current members.

The members of the troop, past and present, have earned a total of 678 awards consisting of 399 merit badges, 172 skill awards, 94 progress awards and 13 other awards.

Troop 3, sponsored by the Carmel Kiwanis Club, meets on Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. at the Carmel Scout House.

Running Back Nelson Holman

How the coach sees it

Morro Bay came for vengeance

By RICHARD MOLEN
Head Coach, Carmel H.S. Padres

THE MORRO BAY High School football team came to Carmel with two objectives in mind: one was to avenge last year's 55-0 shellacking by the Padres; the second was to play football. They accomplished both.

After a scoreless first quarter, in which neither team was able to move the ball on the ground or in the air, the Pirates took advantage of Padre pass defense miscues, and Morro Bay quarterback John Martin faded back and laid a pass into the arms of tailback Damon Lewis who was all alone on Carmel's 15-yard line. He caught the ball and went into the end zone for a touchdown. Lewis kicked the PAT and the Pirates led 7-0 midway in the second quarter.

The most spectacular play of the game came on the ensuing kick off when Padre Nelson Holman received the ball on the six-yard line and ran straight up the middle through Morro Bay's entire team, broke clear at the 40-yard line and was on his way for a 94-yard touchdown. It was a beautiful run and set a Carmel High School record for the longest kickoff return, according to all available past statistics.

On the PAT, Morro Bay was offside and was penalized half the distance to the goal line. Carmel called a time out, lined up for the two point conversion, gave the ball to Holman on a dive play. He scored the two-pointer and the Padres led 8-7 halfway through the second quarter.

The Pirates received the kickoff on the 36-yard line and moved right down the field on a Padre defense that did not in any way, shape, or form resemble the one that played so well against Monterey High School last Friday.

The Pirates' quarterback, John Martin, again took to the air. He completed a pass to receiver Greg Howe on Carmel's 4 yard line — again on Padre defense miscues. Tailback Arnie Silacci drove over left tackle for the touchdown, and the Pirates took the lead once again, 13-8. The attempted PAT was no good and the score remained 13-8 at halftime.

The second half featured a tough defense by Morro Bay which stopped potential Carmel drives on the ground and in the air, intercepting quarterback Brett Langley four times, ending any possible comeback for the Padres in the remainder of the game.

There was no scoring in the second half; the game ended 13-8 in favor of Morro Bay.

GENERAL COMMENT: Obviously, I'm not pleased with the outcome of this game. It was very disappointing for me to see such a difference in our performance in one week. The boys played so well against Monterey and so poorly against Morro Bay. Hopefully they will learn something from this past week and realize that you can't underestimate anyone or any team if you want to be successful in athletics. Because of last year's score (Carmel-55, Morro Bay-0) I think this was the case.

Thankfully, this was a practice game and does not affect our league standing. If a lesson had to be learned, this definitely was the time and place in the season for it to happen.

All the boys on the Padre team are quality young men. I know that each and everyone of them has what it takes to respond to a setback, and I still feel confident that we will have a winning season.

STATUS REPORT: On the plus side — no injuries; penalties two, for 15 yards; yards rushing was well over 200 yards compared to last week's 6 yards. On the minus side — poor pass defense, poor passing game.

THIS WEEK'S GAME: Our game this week is with San Lorenzo Valley at Carmel High School, Saturday, Sept. 26. Junior Varsity at 12, Varsity at 2. Robert Louis Stevenson defeated San Lorenzo 20-7 last week which means they will be up for us. They have a big, strong team with a good running game. We will have to play four quarters of the kind of football I know the boys are capable of playing, in order to win.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK: Nelson Holman: Nelson ran for well over 100 yards and set a school record for a kickoff return. He kept us in the ballgame with his fine running. There is no question in my mind he is one of the better running backs in the league.

Ken Moller wins award

Kenneth R. Moller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moller of Carmel Valley, was one of 50 students selected nationally to receive a $1000 college scholarship from the publishers of Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Kenneth, a 1980 graduate of the Robert Louis Stevenson School, is currently a sophomore at Yale. At RLS, Kenneth was very active in the music and theater programs.

The Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation making the grant is funded entirely by Educational Communications Inc., Northbrook, Ill., publishers of Who's Who. The largest publication in the field of recognition for high achieving high school students, Who's Who Among American High School Students annually lists the achievements of outstanding young people in America's public, private and parochial high schools. Kenneth is the first RLS graduate ever to receive a scholarship from the Foundation.

Back to School tonight at Carmel Middle School

Back to School Night at Carmel Middle School is tonight, Sept. 24 at 7 p.m. Parents are invited to meet in the school gymnasium where principal Frank Lynch will introduce the teachers for the school year.

Each parent will receive a copy of their child's schedule and may then visit the classrooms and meet the teachers.

Parents are also encouraged to join the Middle School Parents' Club; annual dues are $3. Volunteers are needed for activities planned throughout the school year.

Between Oct. 8-19, Middle Schoolers will participate in their third annual magazine sale.

This year, in addition to magazines, students will sell records, tapes and cassettes. The school receives 40 percent of the total sales. Last year, money earned was used to purchase books, computer accessories, athletic and crafts supplies.

Members of the community have been generous in their support of this annual fund-raiser and the students are eager to begin their sales efforts again.

Teen drug, alcohol workshops

PARENTS Who Care, the Carmel area parent support group, has scheduled three workshops in October on teenage drug and alcohol abuse.

The first is to be held at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 5 at Carmel Middle School. There will be a panel discussion on youthful drug and alcohol abuse with teachers, school administrators, law enforcement officers, parents and students.

Eric Olson, a counselor with the Monterey Peninsula Youth Project, will assist with a panel discussion on family problems at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 12 at Middle School. There will also be small group discussions.

And at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 19 at Middle School there will be a panel discussion with the emphasis upon "creative solutions," said Parents Who Care president Maureen Girard of Carmel. Linda Nations, a psychologist and former community counselor with the Carmel Unified School District, will lead a "brainstorming" session.

The public is invited to participate.

Bajuk completes recruit training

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice John M. Bajuk, son of Don R. and Lynne Bajuk of Carmel Valley, has completed recruit training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Alameda.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training leading toward his qualification in one of the Coast Guard's 26 basic occupational fields.

A 1981 graduate of Carmel High School, he joined the Coast Guard in March.

Rod Holmgren appointed to park district board

Rod Holmgren of Carmel has been appointed to the Board of Directors of the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District.

Holmgren was named by the board last week to fill the unexpired term of former director John Sigourney of Carmel Valley, who recently resigned.

The term of office expires in January of 1983.

Holmgren is a retired journalism instructor at Monterey Peninsula College, and he was active in the formation of the parks district in 1972.

He is also an active member of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and the Audubon Society.

In other business, the board authorized the staff to hire a park designer for the Carmel Valley Community Park, a 1.4-acre parcel on Ford Road recently acquired by the district.

The district has $60,000 for the first phase of the park acquisition and improvement available from state park funds, Manager Gary Tate explained.

Father Farrell's wisdom

Asilomar is unique

A blessing for the new Fireside
Complex at Asilomar, June 22, 1981

Oh almighty and eternal God, on this Monday evening we humbly ask Thy blessing on these new buildings at Asilomar, a unique institution on this Peninsula and in the state of California.

Having worked for the state of California for many years in a special type of "silo," the State Prison at Soledad, I know that Asilomar is unique in the fact that it is growing and paying its way at a time when most state institutions are folding or running in the red.

"Asilo" in Spanish means an asylum, but more especially a place of shelter, an invaluable refuge for those fleeing as political refugees seeking asylum in neutral embassy. Asilomar — a place of refuge by the sea — is prospering and so we say in Latin, "Deo Gratias" — thanks be to God.

Several years ago in Dublin I stood in the rain outside a book shop that was closed and copied this Irish blessing in a Celtic script:

"Bless the four corners of these sturdy structures and be the lentil blest, and bless the hearth and bless the board and bless each place of rest.
And bless the door that opens wide to strangers as to kin and bless each crystal wooden plane that lets the sunlight in.
And bless the roof-tile overhead and every sturdy wall.
The peace of man, the peace of God,
the peace of love on all."

May the blessing of almighty God, Son and Holy Ghost descend upon these buildings and upon all here and remain forever. Amen

J.M. Duckworth

Jack Michael Duckworth died Sept. 3 at Community Hospital after being stricken by an apparent heart attack at his Carmel home. He was 50.

Duckworth worked as a teacher and coach in the San Diego area from 1969 to 1972 and as a security guard in Washington state for the past nine years.

He had moved back to the Peninsula four days before his death.

Duckworth attended local grammar and high schools as well as Monterey Peninsula College.

Survivors include his wife, Cheryl of Cape Coral, Fla.; daughters, Keri of Auburn, Wash., Dana of Tacoma, Wash., and Jacklyn Chelle Johnson of Monterey; sons, Jamie of Monterey and Mikael of Cape Coral, Fla.; brother, High of San Pablo; parents, George and Dorothy Selbicky Duckworth of Campo; and one granddaughter.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family prefers contributions in his memory to be made to the Central Mission Trails chapter of the American Heart Association.

E.C. Hallberg

Edith C. Hallberg died Sept. 9 at her Carmel Valley residence after a long illness. She was 88.

Born in Chicago, she had been a resident of the Peninsula for the last 10 months.

Survivors include sister, May E. Olin of Carmel Valley; brother, Walter Hallberg of Seminole, Fla.; and several nieces and nephews.

Services were held in the Handicapped"; Mrs. Roberta Hanyzewski of St. Angela's in Pacific Grove, "Listening Eyes"; Mrs. Debbie Bergstrom of the Church of God in Pacific Grove, "Friends of the Handicapped"; and Mary Haltime, San Carlos Cathedral of Monterey, "Religious Education for the Developmentally Handicapped."

Coffee fellowship will precede the lecture at 10 a.m.

chapel of the Mission Mortuary.

The family requested that instead of flowers, memorial contributions be made to the United Nations International Childrens Emergency Fund in New York City.

Barbara Snow

Barbara Joan Snow, 40, died Sept. 12 in a head-on auto accident near the Half Moon Bay airport.

Miss Snow lived on the Monterey Peninsula from 1950 until she moved to Half Moon Bay recently. She spent most of her life in the Carmel area.

A graduate of Carmel schools, she was a self-employed commercial artist. She is survived by her mother, Adrienne Engle of Carmel Valley; sister Kaaren Stanley of Maui, Hawaii; brother Christopher Engle of Carmel Valley; and four nieces and nephews.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Lucile Nelson

Lucile Nelson died Sept. 13 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital after a brief illness. She was 88.

Born in Charleston, S.C., Miss Nelson was a Carmel resident for 20 years.

She is survived by sisters, Stella Pope and Marie Rowe, both of Virginia.

Contributions may be sent to the donor's favorite charity.

The California Cremation Society was in charge of arrangements.

Henry Trube

Henry A. Trube died Sept. 14 at Driftwood Convalescent Hospital after a long illness. He was 83.

A native of St. Petersburg, Russia, Trube attended the St. Petersburg Conservatory of Music before coming to this country at the age of 17.

A 22-year resident of Carmel, he was employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. before retiring.

He is survived by his wife, Lily of Carmel; a son, Theodore of Los Angeles; and one grandson.

The family suggested memorial contributions be sent to the Monterey Chapter of Hadassah, Box 262, Carmel.

What keeps pets tame

By JUDITH A. EISNER

BY DEFINITION, a domestic animal is a tame animal, one which is familiar with being handled by man and who lives as part of a human household, whether indoors or out.

No matter whether the animal is large or small — horse or kitten — the thing that sets him apart from a wild animal is his tractability and acceptance of man's whims. A horse that kicks and bites, a cow that cannot be milked or a cat that scratches without cause cannot be considered truly domesticated.

All domestic animals were originally wild. The fast-vanishing mustang, the wild cattle and bison, the coyote, the bobcat and other wild cats are all distant relatives of the domesticated horse, cow, dog and cat.

The process of domestication from original wild creature to willing and docile servant and companion of man was a long, slow process that occurred many thousands of years ago. At first, primitive man must have stolen wild dog pups from their den; later, he captured wild horses when he discovered their usefulness. Only in modern times has animal breeding come under man's dominion, where he intentionally produced offspring of his original wild stock.

Even though our everyday domestic animals have been living in close association with man, they still retain many of their instincts that began as survival traits in the wild.

Thus, the modern-day dog turns around three or four times before lying down — a throwback to long-gone days when he made his nest in leaves and grass and turned about to chase off snakes, scorpions and other undesirable bedfellows and to flatten down his bedding.

And the domestic horse still resorts to true wild horse tactics when he feels threatened. The horse in the wilds depended primarily on his alertness and ability to flee quickly from an enemy. So the modern horse tends to shy, ready to flee, from sudden flashes of sunlight in trees or movement in the underbrush, at shadows falling across his paths, at blowing paper — all an atavistic reaction to the days when wild cats lurked in tree forks ready to spring on unwary horseflesh passing beneath.

Always, somewhere below surface consciousness in a domestic animal, there lie half-buried all the old, primitive instincts for survival. Normally, man is able to keep these instincts buried, and he does this by continuing the domestication process in each successive generation of animal he breeds.

He domesticates by handling, by touching, by close association, by giving affection, and by providing food. Thus, he "gentles" a silly, skittish colt into trusting him, and he establishes a trust relationship with a litter of young puppies or kittens by playing with them and petting them and feeding them — all positive things to an animal's young brain.

But if he neglects the domesticating process with young animals for too long, he may have lost them forever.

JUST THIS WEEK, a friend of ours took into her home a litter of three kittens who were almost lost as domestic animals. Their owner was unable to keep them, sell them or otherwise dispose of them, and was heading for the SPCA when she intervened.

These kittens were unfortunate enough to be born at a time when the woman of the household had to leave on an extended trip. The man worked long hours. So mama cat and her babies were consigned to a bathroom, where they lived, pretty much on their own, for nine weeks. Their only brief contact with the man was when they were given a pan of food.

At eight weeks of age, the three kittens were all-but-unapproachable. They hissed, spat, fluffed out their fur and bit when a hand reached out for them. They reacted, instinctively, the way a den of baby bobcats or mountain lions of the same age would react when approached by any stranger or enemy.

Because they were still young and malleable, they were not yet untamable. A few days of intensified human contact, including a great deal of holding, petting and feeding, turned them from baby wild beasts into typical, playful, bold kittens. They stopped growling and hissing when approached and learned to purr. They stopped hiding in dark corners and began climbing over the furniture with newly-found confidence. They were, in short, rescued from an instinctive behavior pattern that made them unfit to live with men, to their modern, domesticated heredity.

There is a good lesson to be learned from the above true story, and it should be learned by everyone who ever takes it upon himself to raise any baby animals.

It is not enough to lock a mother dog and her puppies, a mother cat and her kittens, or any family of domestic animals into a barn or shed or back room and leave them to "just grow."

It has been conclusively proven in studies made with numerous litters of young puppies, that unless they are "socialized" by the age of 16 weeks — at the outside — they are forever useless to man. They revert back to instinctive behavior patterns and, once past that 16-week mark, cannot be brought back into the fold.

All young animals must have human affection from a very early age if they are to grow up domesticated. With puppies and kittens, humans should be familiar parts of their lives from the time their eyes open. They must be petted and played with and talked to as soon as they young brains can absorb messages, so that they develop trust and affection for their human friends.

When young animals learn, practically from birth, that humans are dispensers of food, petting, warmth and affection, they never display the wildness shown by that litter of kittens. Domestication — tameness — is implanted firmly into their behavior and wildness never has a chance to take over.

Carmel Mission Fiesta Sunday

The annual fiesta to honor the patron saint of the Carmel Mission, San Carlos Borromeo, will be celebrated Sunday, Sept. 27, from noon to 5 p.m., in the courtyard,

The Carmel Pine Cone

Carmel Mission Basilica, Rio Rd, 1/4 mile west of Highway 1.

The Carmel Mission Festival, a popular local event, will offer mariachi bands, Spanish dancers, games, sports, prizes, arts and crafts, and a barbecue. Admission is free and everyone is welcome.

A mass will be held at 11 a.m., before the festivities begin.

The fiesta has been celebrated since the founding of the Mission. It honors San Carlos Borromeo, an Italian nobleman, scholar and theologian born in 1538. At age 22 he was named a Cardinal. He was a leader of the church reform movement and became Archbishop of Milan and founder of the Order of the Oblates.

He was sainted for his work with the poor. Not only did Carlos Borromeo give personal aid, but he contributed large sums of money to the needy.

The barbecue, priced at $5, will be served at noon. The menu includes chicken, beans and garlic bread. All proceeds will benefit the Mission and the Junipero Serra school.

The music of El Mariachi Mixtlan, a group of musicians from all over the Monterey Peninsula, will be presented from 2-2:45 p.m. and again from 3:30-4:15 p.m.

Also scheduled to perform are Flamenco dancer Paula Reyes, marimba players Bruce and Judy Cowen, and guitarist Peter Evans.

During the fiesta, 55 artisans and craftsmen will sell their wares. The selection includes pottery, glass work, weaving, painting, jewelry and more.

No pets, please.

For more information, phone Mrs. E. A. Odello, 624-7473.

THE CARMEL MISSION courtyard will be filled with mariachi bands, Flamenco dancers, games and arts and crafts Sunday, Sept. 27 for the annual Carmel Mission Basilica Festival. The Fiesta commemorates San Carlos Borromeo, the patron saint of the Mission. Festivities are from noon to 5 p.m.

Staff Players Repertory to open two one-act plays Friday night

The Staff Players Repertory Company will begin its new season Friday, Sept. 25 with two one-act plays under the title, He's Broke, She's Broke.

The two plays, described as light-hearted looks at the problem of money in other centuries, are The Lying Valet by David Garrick and The Twelve Pound Look by James Barrie.

The plays will be staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday for five weeks. Curtain time is 8:30. General admission is $5; students and seniors $3.

The second presentation of the new season will be Noel Coward's popular comedy, Blithe Spirit, opening Oct. 30 and running for six weekends.

The Staff Player's Christmas play will be Little Angel's Rest, by Marcia Hovick, opening Dec. 11 for three weekends.

All performances of the Staff Players are presented at the theatre under the stage of the Forest Theater, Santa Rita and Mountain View, Carmel. Seating is limited and reservations are recommended.

For more information, phone 624-1531.

Cartoonist Bil ("Family Circus") Keane to autograph at Thunderbird

"... then my mommy said to daddy, 'We'll get rid of all the junk around this place.'"

Cartoonist Bil Keane, whose "Family Circus" cartoon panel is syndicated in 750 daily and Sunday newspapers reaching more than 70 million readers, will autograph his recent book, The Family Circus Treasury, at the Thunderbird Bookshop, Sunday, Sept. 27, 1 p.m.

Keane has been judged "best syndicated panel cartoonist" three times by his peers in the National Cartoonists Society, and has been rated first in readers' polls all over the country.

Ten million copies of his 28 paperback books have been sold, and three prime-time specials based on his work have been produced by NBC television.

Born Oct. 5, 1922 in Philadelphia, Keane writes: "I used to spell my first name with two L's but my father caught me drawing on the walls and he knocked the 'L' out of me."

"I taught myself to draw while in high school by copying the work of my favorite cartoonists. Spent three years in the Army during World War II, but we won anyhow."

The public is invited to meet Keane at the Thunderbird Bookshop in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., Carmel. For more information phone 624-8842.

Sunset Views The danger of Reagan's budget reductions

By RICHARD TYLER

"ANYONE WITH A SENSE of realism and responsibility in the arts knew in advance of President Reagan's budget message that there were going to be cuts in federal funding. It was expected — and with very few objections — that the new administration's effort to halt inflation and reduce government spending in certain areas would include cutbacks in appropriations to the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) and the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH), the two federal agencies charged with aiding nonprofit arts institutions and individuals.

Budget Director David Stockman has said, "For too long the endowments have spread federal financing into an ever wider range of artistic and literary endeavor promoting the notion that the federal government should be the financial patron of first resort for both individuals and institutions engaged in artistic and literary pursuits. This policy has resulted in a reduction of the historic role of private, individual and corporate philanthropic support in these areas."

That final sentence is the one that hurt members of the arts community the most, because it is so misinformed on the actual impact of federal funding on the arts. Except in instances where federal money is important in getting a struggling arts group off to a stable start, NEA funding, for example, is a very small percentage of the total budget of an arts organization. Many major opera companies and theaters received a maximum of five percent of their budgets from NEA grants.

This is not, as Stockman's statement insists, "The financial patron of first resort." Rather, NEA grants are used as seed money, as a catalyst to encourage "private, individual, and corporate philanthropic support," as seals of approval indicating to other funding sources that the arts organization is legitimate and responsible. Far from reducing private giving, the NEA money has promoted corporate and foundation aid, as anyone familiar with philanthropic giving in this country in the last decade knows.

THE DANGER of such sharp reductions — from $175 million (the old budget figure) to $88 million for NEA, and from $165 million to $81 million for NEH — and of such wrong statements is that it may have a ripple effect in state and city aid to the arts.

If the government cuts can be coupled with additional tax benefits that lead to greater private giving, then it may be very healthy. But, if the public perceives that the administration believes the arts are not important than we are in real trouble. Perhaps most distressing of all is the belief by some government officials that the arts, after all, serve only a favored few minority.

Despite public opinion polls showing that the majority of United States citizens believes the arts are important and should be supported, and despite the economic studies showing that arts activities have a high impact on the financial well-being of a community, there is a persistent impression in some government quarters that the arts don't matter.

No profession has suffered more from inflation than the labor-intensive field of the arts. Faced with sharp rising costs for labor and material, arts groups have tried to save money by cutting back to smaller shows and increasing ticket prices. In both cases there is a limit that may soon be reached. Contrary to the concept of arts groups as government freeloaders, many performing arts groups earn two-thirds of their expenses and gifts from individuals constitute the largest share of unearned income.

If the debate rouses the arts community to a strong, articulate, and united stand, it may, in the long run, be beneficial. But, if the false rationale that has motivated the endowment cuts is allowed to stand unchallenged or weakly contested, then the arts once more will be stamped as the poor relation, the low priority stepchild of American society.

16th century Italian madrigal music, polychoral singing in Carmel Friday

A concert of 16th century Italian madrigal music and polychoral singing will be performed Friday, Sept. 25, 8 p.m. at the Church of the Wayfarer, Lincoln and Seventh, Carmel.

The music will be played on reconstructions of original early instruments.

Two groups will participate in the performance: The Dunstable Singers and the San Francisco Cornet and Sackbut Ensemble. They will be joined by Dr. Herbert W. Myers, formerly of the New York Pro Musica.

The instruments include the cornet, a curved woodwind with a trumpet mouthpiece; the renaissance flute, a transverse wood flute of recorder vintage; the sackbut, which became the modern trombone, and the dulcian, forerunner of the bassoon.

Admission to this benefit for the Friends of Music Fund is $3. For more information, phone 624-3550.

Western dressage finals at Pebble Beach Thurs.-Sun.

Classical horsemanship returns to the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center this weekend where the 1981 Western Regional Dressage Finals are scheduled Thursday through Sunday, Sept. 24-27. The event is sponsored by Almaden Vineyards and the American Horse Show Association (AHSA).

This is the first time the prestigious dressage finals will be held at Pebble Beach. Last year, in conjunction with the California Dressage Society annual championship show, the event attracted several thousand spectators at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa.

Several hundred competitors from the Western states are entered; they have qualified for the AHSA Regional Finals, which are divided into First through Fourth Level.

Upper level finals will determine the United States Equestrian Team (USET) champion horses at Prix St. George, Intermediate I and II and the winner of the National Dressage Championship Trophy.

Special classes include the Kur, an original ride, created by the rider and ridden to music, and the Pas de Deux, in which two riders perform an original ride.

Dressage is one of the fastest-growing equestrian sports in this country. The California Dressage Society now numbers more than 2,000 members. Its annual championship show was held last weekend at Santa Barbara; many riders who qualified for the CDS annual show will also appear at Pebble Beach.

The aim of dressage is to make a horse supple, obedient and relaxed—at one with his rider—and thereby able to perform a variety of movements with balance, grace and precision. Dressage training is based on the horse's three natural gaits and seeks to create, under saddle, the freedom and beauty inherent to the horse at liberty.

Judges for the Dressage Finals are Michael Handler of Norton, Conn.; Linda Zang, Davidsonville, Md.; Brig. Gen. F.F. Wing Jr., Leesburg, Va.; Shelly Siegel of Livermore and Elizabeth Searle of San Juan Bautista.

Local horses and riders expected to compete include Mary Moiso of Carmel Valley on Bayard, winner of the CDS Second Level Horse of the Year in 1980 and Alexandra Howard of Watsonville, who will perform a Pas de Deux with her daughter, Ann. Ms. Howard will ride Bull Market, who was chosen as alternate to the 1980 USET Dressage Team. He will also be shown at Grand Prix, the highest level of dressage training. J. Ashton Moore of San Juan Bautista will ride Kings Praise at Intermediate.

Classes are scheduled according to level, beginning with Level I on Friday and continuing through Level IV. Upper level F.E.I. tests are scheduled Saturday and Sunday. Rides each day will begin at approximately 8 a.m.

There is no charge to attend the Dressage Finals other than the $4-per-car gate fee into Del Monte Forest. Food and beverages will be available on the grounds.

For further information, phone the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center, 624-2756.

THE WESTERN REGIONAL Dressage Finals, sponsored by the American Horse Show Association and Almaden Vineyards, will bring several hundred horses and riders from the Western states to the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center this weekend. Tests in Levels I through IV as well as upper level Prix St. George, Intermediate and Grand Prix will be ridden Thursday through Sunday, Sept. 24-27. The horse and rider pictured are executing a flying change of lead, one of the upper level movements.

Hospice program Oct. 24 to discuss

'Bio-Ethical Issues of Terminally Ill'

Those who serve patients with life-threatening illnesses, and patients' families, are called upon to confront complex bio-ethical situations. For this reason, the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula and the Cypress Foundation will present a day-long program, "Bio-ethical Issues and the Terminally Ill," Saturday, Oct. 24, in the Steinbeck Forum, Monterey Conference Center.

The program will explore such issues as "Clinical decisions to limit treatment," "Informed consent," "The Living Will," "Who is the decision-maker in bio-ethical issues?" and "Legal definitions of death."

Speakers include: Leslie S. Rothenberg, attorney; Bernard Lo, M.D.; Dr. Jerome Rubin, Hospice founder; Raymond G. Decker, Hospice executive director; and Karin Sobeck, Hospice director of home care.

Advance registration of $65 for physicians and attorneys; $45 for nurses, health professionals and others — postmarked by Oct. 6. On-site registration is $15 additional and will begin at 8 a.m., Oct. 24. The program begins at 9:30 a.m.

For more information, phone 625-0666.

How to play a one

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

BLACK

BLACK'S HOME BOARD

© 1981 L.A. Times Synd.

WHITE

WHITE'S HOME BOARD

You, White, roll 5-1 in the diagrammed position. How do you play it?

There's no problem about the five: you will surely come down from your midpoint to your 8-point. The only question is whether to play the one by moving from Black's 1-point to his 2-point or by moving from your 6-point to your 5-point.

If you split the back men you may have an easier time making an advanced point. You can make Black's 4-point, for example, with a 3-2 or a 2-3; but if you keep the two men together, you need a 3-3.

The trouble is that Black may roll a 6-4 and hit your blot on the 2-point. He may roll 4-4 and hit the blot on his 2-point and also make his 4-point. Or he may roll 5-5 and hit the blot on his 1-point and make his 3-point. These are rather unlikely rolls, but you haven't gained enough to make up for the risk you have taken.

You might take the risk if you had nothing better to do with a one, but in this position you have a perfectly good move: from your 6-point to your 5-point.

Make the safe move and wait for a better chance to advance the men on Black's 1-point.

Convalescent hospital patients compete in 'Olympiatrics' Sat.

The 1981 Olympiatrics Games, involving residents of Monterey County convalescent hospitals, will be played Saturday, Sept. 26 at the Monterey Peninsula College Gym, 1:30-4:30 p.m.

The meet will be conducted like a regular Olympic event, with opening ceremonies, judges, and official scorekeepers.

The fields of competition are divided into two categories: Wheel Chair and Ambulatory. Events include foot races, free-style throws, relays and wheel chair races.

The purpose of the Olympiatrics is to diminish myths about the inactivity of "forgotten seniors" who are unable to live at home and require skilled nursing care.

The event is free and the public is invited. Monterey Peninsula College is at 980 Fremont St., Monterey. For more information, phone Bobbie Schacher, 373-3716.

Deadline near for Fish & Game

photography awards competition

Outdoor photographers have less than one week to submit entries in the 1981 photo award competition sponsored by the state Fish and Game Commission.

Anyone can enter the contest, now in its seventh year, but only pictures of live fish and wildlife species in their native habitat and pictures of the natural environment within the state will be considered.

Black and white and color prints will be accepted in six regular and two special categories. Regular categories are fish, invertebrates, birds, mammals, reptiles and amphibians, and the natural environment. Special categories this year are raptors and upland game birds.

The 1981 contest closes Sept. 30.

Judging will be done by a special panel of experts selected by the commission.

Certificates of excellence and honorable mention will be awarded for black and white and color in each category, and a picture of the year will be selected.

The top picture will be displayed in the state Capitol on a perpetual trophy. The photographer will receive a replica of the trophy and will have the opportunity to accompany a Department of Fish and Game employee into the field to take pictures.

More information is available from the commission at 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento 95814; (916) 445-7613.

Profile of 'The West' in week-long Salinas program

A celebration and exploration of the western way of life, "The West" will be presented in Salinas Saturday, Sept 26 through Sunday, Oct. 4.

Featured activities include an opening night Festival of Western Entertainment, a series of nine classic western films, the play Cowboy, panel discussions with authors and scholars, music, and other festivities.

Admission is free to all events. "The West" is a John Steinbeck Library project made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The schedule of activities:

Saturday, Sept 26, 8 p.m. — Opening Night, Festival of Western Entertainment: music, dancing, more; at Sherwood Hall.

Sunday, Sept. 27, 2 p.m. — Lecture and discussion, "The Popular American Western" at the City Hall Rotunda.

Sunday, 7:30 p.m. — Panel Discussion, "The Western and American Popular Culture" with slides; City Hall Rotunda.

Monday, Sept 28, 2 p.m. — Film, Stagecoach [1939]; City Hall Rotunda.

Monday, 7:30 p.m. — Film, High Noon (1952); City Hall Rotunda.

Tuesday, Sept. 29, 2 p.m.—Film, Shane (1953); John Steinbeck Library Meeting Room.

Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. — Panel Discussion, "The Myth and Mystique of the American Cowboy," at the John Steinbeck Library Meeting Room.

Wednesday, Sept. 30, 2 p.m. — Film, Cowboy (1958); City Hall Rotunda.

Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. — Film, Hud (1963); City Hall Rotunda.

Thursday, Oct. 1, 2 p.m. — Film, Broken Arrow (1950); City Hall Rotunda.

Thursday, 7:30 p.m. — Panel Discussion "Images of the American Indian," City Hall Rotunda.

Friday, Oct. 2, 2 p.m. — Film, The Gunfighter (1950); City Hall Rotunda.

Friday, 7:30 p.m.— Film, Johnny Guitar (1954); City Hall Rotunda.

Saturday, Oct. 3, 2 p.m. — Lecture and Discussion: "Mark Twain's Roughing It," City Hall Rotunda.

Sunday, Oct. 4, 2 p.m. — Panel Discussion: "Images of Frontier Women," illustrated.

"The West" is Part Two of a four-part project entitled "Shaping America's Imagination: Art and Literature of the West."

Carefully organized over the period of a year by John Gross of the Steinbeck Library, the program is designed to explore the considerable influence of the western region of the U.S. on national and international culture.

In addition to the entertainment features of the program, Mr. Gross has sought to bring together more than a dozen of the most important scholars of western lore to share specialized insights into the colorful history of the region.

Part One, on John Steinbeck, was attended last year by 4000 people. "The West" is Part Two. Part Three, "The Film as Art Form," is scheduled for January 1982; Part Four, later next year, will be devoted to Robinson Jeffers.

Brochures with details of "The West" can be picked up at many local libraries. For more information phone 1-758-7311.

Caponigro photographs featured at Weston Gallery

The photographs of Paul Caponigro will be featured at the Weston Gallery in Carmel through October.

The Weston Gallery is northern California representative for his work.

Caponigro, whose career in photography spans 30 years, is recognized as one of the masters of contemporary photography. Having studied and worked with Minor White in the 1950s, he has become a principal exponent of the concept of spirituality in photography.

Caponigro's work is distinguished by an illuminating displacement of scale and expectation. Often the viewer is not sure whether the photograph portrays a vast or a miniature landscape. His personal documentary adventure has produced abstract and transcendent imagery of the most profound realism.

Recipient of two Guggenheim Fellowships, Caponigro has taught at a number of institutions including New York University and Yale. His one-man exhibitions include the Museum of Modern Art, George Eastman House, and Victoria & Albert Museum.

The Weston Gallery will co-publish a catalog of Caponigro's work. There will be frequent displays of his photographs until a major exhibition in the spring of 1982.

Cartoonists in town this weekend

The funniest newspapermen in the business will be in Carmel this week as the Northern California Cartoon and Humor Association gathers to celebrate its 28th anniversary.

Local cartoonists Eldon Dedini, who publishes regularly in Playboy and The New Yorker, and Gus Arriola, of Gordo fame, will participate.

Artists coming from out of town include Bil Keane, now president of the National Cartoonists' Society; Dick Rogers of Capitola (Johnny Wonder); and Frank Hill of Santa Cruz (Short Ribs).

Although none of the planned convention activities are public events, the humorists will be around town playing tennis and having fun.

Bil Keane, creator of The Family Circus cartoons, and some of the other attending cartoonists, will be at Thunderbird Bookshop, Sunday, Sept. 27, 1 p.m. for a Keane book-signing party.

Thunderbird is in The Barnyard, near the intersection of Highway 1 and Rio Rd., Carmel.

An ounce of prevention

Do you really need all that protein?

By RALPH RETHERFORD, M.D.

ONE OF THE most common dietary misconceptions in modern day America concerns the need for protein in our diets. Somehow, we Americans have the notion that we are going to waste away if we don't get a lot of high protein food in our diet.

Frequently, when I am counseling my patients who have high blood cholesterol, when we get to the part about limiting their intake of dairy products, egg yolks and meats, the question of protein comes up. Many people are concerned that if they restrict their meat intake to a quarter of a pound a day of lean meat and eliminate dairy products other than non-fat milk that they will not get enough protein to sustain them.

I am happy to say that this fear is unjustified and that the need for protein in our diet is minimal. In fact, it is nearly impossible to become protein deficient if you are eating enough food to maintain your weight.

The idea that we need a lot of "high-quality" protein in our diets in order to sustain our growth and our health came from studies back in the 1920s with rats. At that time scientists found that if you fed rats a diet high in animal protein, particularly eggs, the rats grew significantly larger and were more vigorous than those kept on a strict vegetarian diet.

From these initial classical experiments animal and plant proteins became classified according to something called P.E.R., or protein efficiency ratio. The higher the P.E.R. rating, the faster rats would grow — eating that particular type of protein. Eggs were set up as the standards, because rats grew the best on egg protein. Since proteins are made up of amino acids, the amino acid composition of eggs was set up as the ideal amino acid composition of food proteins in general.

Thus wheat, rice, and various other vegetable proteins came to have a bad reputation, as rats did not grow as quickly when they were fed these proteins as when they were fed eggs or other animal proteins, and the various vegetable proteins were found to be slightly lower than eggs in various amino acids. It was at this time that the very unfortunate term "incomplete" protein was applied to these vegetable proteins. In fact, this is a misnomer. Every vegetable protein has all of the amino acids present. The vegetable proteins merely have different ratios of amino acids than egg protein.

THE BOTTOM LINE of all of this is: do human beings respond in the same way as rats to animal and vegetable proteins? Numerous experiments have been done on humans of all ages, from infancy to adults using various types of vegetable protein and animal protein in the diet. It has not been demonstrated that humans grow faster, are more vigorous, or are more healthy on animal proteins than on vegetable proteins. Perhaps the most revealing experiment was done by feeding one group of volunteers a diet of pure white rice, another group a diet of white rice plus 15 percent chicken, and a third group white rice plus 30 percent chicken.

These people were studied in a metabolic unit, where the amount of protein going into their bodies and the amount of protein going out of their bodies was carefully measured. At the end of the study it was found that there was no significant difference between the study groups, and in fact the group on the plain white rice did the best of three as far as staying in positive nitrogen balance. (This is scientific terminology for the body's ability to utilize protein in the diet and keep it in the body — in other words, building muscle and tissue.)

Now, when I first read this study I was amazed, because I thought that refined white rice was pure carbohydrate. I was interested to discover white rice has about five percent of its calories from protein and amazingly enough, if you eat a diet of pure white rice you get all the protein that your body needs to grow and function normally.

Now, I am not advocating a diet of white rice because remember, when the Japanese Navy began feeding their sailors white rice early in this century, the sailors came down with beri-beri from thiamine deficiency. So while white rice supplies all the protein necessary for your body, it does not supply vitamins and minerals.

So, we see, it has been demonstrated in numerous scientific studies that human beings are capable of existing quite nicely on diets where only five percent of the calories come from protein — all of it vegetable protein. It has not been shown to my satisfaction that is necessary to balance different proteins (as many authorities recommend) by mixing grains and legumes, although there is certainly no harm in doing this.

The only time that it is possible to become protein deficient is if you are eating a diet of pure refined sugar, which of course has no protein in it, or if you are getting inadequate calories in your diet, such as occurs in times of famine. When the body does not get enough calories, it burns the protein that is in the diet as fuel rather than utilizing the protein to build muscle and tissue. Of course when the body is not getting enough calories it also begins burning up the body's own tissues as fuel.

Remember that the average American gets roughly 16 percent of his calories from protein, an amount far in excess of what is necessary, and even on the low fat low cholesterol diet when it is followed rigorously, at least 12 percent of your calories will come from protein.

AN INTERESTING FOOTNOTE to the above is the fact that excessive amounts of protein in the diet lead to increased loss in the urine of various minerals, the most notable of which is calcium. Normally, this would not be enough extra calcium loss to cause any problems, but in an older person who has osteoporosis — a condition of thinning of the bones — the extra calcium loss from a high protein diet could possibly tip the balance in a negative way.

The other problem with high protein diets is that they are almost invariably high fat diets, as most foods which we consider to be high sources of protein are also very high in saturated fat and cholesterol.

For instance, cheese is a good source of animal protein, but roughly 75 percent of its calories come from fat. Beef is an excellent source of protein, but again 40-60 percent of its calories come from fat, most of it saturated.

On the other hand, you may be surprised to discover that raw steamed spinach has 26 percent of its calories from protein! Whole wheat bread has roughly 16 percent of its calories from protein.

So, if you have been holding off on starting a low cholesterol diet because you will not get enough protein, I hope that the above will clear the way for you and help you to enjoy your new healthful diet with your mind at ease about protein.

Until next week.

Landscape photography workshops offered by Friends of Photography

Traditional and contemporary approaches to landscape photography will be the subject of the Friends of Photography Fall Landscape Workshop, Sept. 30 - Oct. 4 in Carmel.

The workshop faculty consists of five landscape photographers: Lucien Clergue, Jack Sal, Gail Skoff, Michael Smith and Don Worth.

Tuition for the workshop is $225. Each participant will be assigned to a small group, which will meet with the faculty members in rotation during morning and afternoon sessions. In the evening, all participants will meet together for lectures and other activities.

In addition, workshop assistants will lead optional sessions to various spots on the Monterey Peninsula each morning before the scheduled sessions.

For more information phone Mary Swanson, 624-6330.

Alcoholism effect on longevity is topic of Saturday lecture

The Alcohol Awareness Program and Hartnell College will present "Longevity, Wellness and Alcoholism," a lecture by Ken Dychtwald, Ph.D., Saturday, Sept. 26 at 9 a.m. at the Seaside Community Center, 986 Hilby, Seaside. The lecture is the third in a series on alcohol problems and the elderly.

The program is free and open to the public. College credit is also available. Registration will be at the time of the lecture.

For more information, phone 757-8166.

'Creative Oral Communication' course to start

Mrs. Beatrice Boehm Schoenwisner will teach a course in Creative Oral Communication at Sunset Center in Carmel beginning Monday, Sept. 28.

Students will receive instruction in how to chair meetings and programs, introduce guests and speakers, and work with impromptu creative ideas.

Individual help in speech and speaking problems will be stressed, as well as proper use of voice, enunciation, gestures, posture and microphone techniques.

Mrs. Schoenwisner received her B.S. at Columbia University and an M.A. at Stanford.

A beginning course of six lessons costs $24.

Classes will be Mondays, 10-noon or 4-6 p.m. Register by calling the Sunset Center office, 624-3996.

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON URGENCY ORDINANCE LIMITING HEIGHT AND BULK OF BUILDINGS IN TERRITORY ANNEXED TO CARMEL PUBLIC HEARING

October 5, 1981
7:30 P.M.
CITY HALL
East Side Monte Verde Between
Ocean and Seventh

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, will conduct a Public Hearing in the Council Chambers of said City, east side of Monte Verde Street between Ocean and Seventh Avenues, on Monday, October 5, 1981, at the hour of 7:30 P.M. or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, to consider the following:

The advisability of adopting a one (1) year interim zoning ordinance which would impose height restrictions and the City's Design Study requirements (review of size and bulk visible from the public way) within areas which have been annexed to the City since May 3, 1967. The height in these areas is currently regulated by the County requirements existing at the time of their annexation. The moratorium which is proposed at this time is to allow the blending of the zoning requirements in this area with those of the City during the current revision of the City's General Plan and to assure that development in these areas will be consistent with the anticipated revised general plan. The ordinance will prohibit during the interim period, the building of structures over the maximum height and the issuance of building permits until the City's Design Study requirements are met.

NOTICE is further given that the aforesaid Public Hearing will be held pursuant to Section 65858 of the Government Code of the State of California.

WHAT? An 18% Interest Rate Loan?

ACTUALLY, ALMOST ANY HOME ON THIS PAGE CAN PROBABLY BE PURCHASED WITH SOME COMBINATION OF OWNER FINANCING AT LOWER RATES THAN BANKS. IF YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR INTEREST RATES TO COME DOWN, MAYBE THEY ALREADY HAVE.

BIG SUR ISOLATION attracts many. It's an independence of spirit. Those same people want a home they can redesign to make their own. This home in Sycamore Canyon offers over 7 acres, a two-bedroom, 1½-bath residence with interesting possibilities for country living, and abundant water at $180,000.

ANOTHER BIG SUR possibility is a lot in Palo Colorado Canyon. You can hear Rocky Creek from any point, and it's close enough to the Peninsula to commute. $51,500, and the owner will consider financing.

COMSTOCK can mean two things — very cute or very solid. Our newest listing is both. South of Ocean Ave., the location is excellent, and the home would be ideal for vacations or your eventual year-around residence. Inside, the hardwood floors reflect the coved plaster ceilings. Outside, the extensive decks both up and down stairs provide the best kind of Carmel living. Being sold completely furnished, "Red Geranium" can be financed by the owners with 25% down at $375,000.

PACIFIC GROVE has a charm all its own, and this home fits. The large living room and three very large bedrooms all offer good living in a great location. Best of all, the owner is willing to finance at $215,000.

CARMEL VALLEY SUNSHINE on over an acre of ground, with the best kind of outdoor living available in this three-bedroom plus den home. With a hot tub in a deck off the master suite and an ideal location for a pool you could spend a day just swimming or tubing and listening to the quiet. Sunny kitchen, warm and inviting family room, all on an ideal setting near Carmel Valley Ranch. $395,000.

REMEMBER YOSEMITE? No crowds, no smog. Oakhurst still is the way Yosemite used to be. We have a 100-acre parcel with its own lake, A-frame cabin, and owner financing at $395,000.

FRANKLY, the home described here is not for everyone, but if the idea of a distant ocean view, a seven-pool waterfall, a full-grown pine tree in the marble dining room, free-form decks, two 1-bedroom suites upstairs and a separate studio downstairs is enough to spark your interest, and the idea of a newly-lowered price interests you even more, perhaps you'd like to see the home called "Falconhurst." Just reduced from $290,000 to $269,000.

HIGH UP IN CARMEL WOODS, on ¼ acre of lovingly groomed land, is one of the prettiest homes we have listed. Adobe bricks line the walkway from the ample parking to the redwood-deck entry. You probably would notice first the copper hood over the fireplace in the newly-carpeted living room, but there is a charming atrium to your right. To the left are both bedrooms, the master having its own sitting room. Extensive use of ceramic tile complement each room, particularly the complete kitchen with parquet floors. Lovely sunsets over the ocean view. $329,000.

ENTER through a gorgeous manicured garden to this 2-bedroom, 2-bath redwood hideaway. Excellent access from the house to secluded oak-rich patios. Cathedral-beamed ceilings, warm decor, and only 5 blocks to shopping. There are large assumable loans at $282,500.

VIEWS! VIEWS! VIEWS!

Located in one of Carmel's most exclusive neighborhoods, spectacular views of the ranch (Odello and Fish), the beach (Pebble and Monastery) or the Pacific Ocean will be cherished from every spacious room in this 3300 square foot executive home. Professionally remodeled, redecorated and re-landscaped in 1980, a tranquil tone is set by the open contemporary floor plan featuring a master suite with a separate study and two full tiled baths. Luxurious family or guest bedroom/bath suites, floor-to-ceiling rock fireplaces in the distinctive living and family rooms, an elegant dining room complete with crystal chandelier and a warm, intimate kitchen with storage galore. This prestigious 1/3 acre cul-de-sac site affords privacy, yet is only a short walk to the beach. The owners are anxious and have reduced the price $30,000. Offered for $439,500. Call Maria Wahl, 624-0176.

CHRISTOPHER BOCK

A French Country House in Pebble Beach

This house presents a rather formal facade to the road: long, low profile of cream-colored stucco, punctuated by 5 framed windows, topped by a short roof. A series of carriage lamps adds distinction to the exterior.

The entrance is recessed and brings you into a small reception hall. Directly ahead is the pleasant family room, and beyond it a view of the extensive back yard through a broad dormer window.

The kitchen is at the left, separated by a tiled bar and equipped with many dark wood cabinets, built-in oven, dishwasher, disposal and counter top range. Beyond the kitchen is the overhead double garage, safe entry to the house. And, facing front, is the formal dining room.

A right turn from the entrance delivers you into the 16 x 23 living room, which crosses the entire house. A wall-high fireplace of variegated brick occupies the far corner and rises to the "tray" ceiling. Two large windows face front, and sliding glass doors give access to the rear garden. The floors here, and in the dining room and entrance, are beautiful random width oak.

On the other side of the living room is a long wing which crosses the house. At its far end is the master bedroom, a generous chamber more than 15 feet square. Then come two delightfully decorated baths, then 2 other bedrooms. All of these spaces are carpeted.

It's unusual to find such a house (only 3 years old) on such a lot (105 feet wide and 200 feet deep) so close to the Lodge. That is just a little more than 2 winding blocks down the slope, and the polo field is even nearer on the north.

Attractive financing is available, so it won't last long. $489,000.

MAGNIFICENT WOODED SETTING

NEW OFFERING—ON SPINDRIFT ROAD, a coveted residential area on Carmel's south coast, an unusually attractive home in Spanish style, just remodeled and updated and with a peek of the nearby ocean. This stucco home with its tiled roof and round-arched windows stands in the middle of a newly landscaped garden, with a grove of mature cypresses to the rear. Good-sized living and dining rooms with refinished hardwood floors, brand new kitchen with attractive Mexican tiled counters and terra cotta tiled floor, dinette with tiny brick fireplace, master bedroom with brick corner fireplace, three other comfortable bedrooms, all with wall-to-wall carpeting . . . we could go on and on, but we suggest you see for yourself. An excellent buy at $425,000.

ALSO ON SPINDRIFT

A HANDSOME redwood and glass contemporary home of superb craftsmanship, with an open, spacious floor plan for living and entertaining in a comfortable but elegant lifestyle. Three bedrooms, including a luxurious master suite with its own fireplace and access to a big deck with hot tub. Living room has redwood siding, open-beam ceiling, and brick fireplace with skylighted arbor above. A big family room is located off the modern kitchen with its array of convenient appliances and butcher block counters. A home of much appeal! $480,000—and the owner will help finance.

ON THE 13TH AT SPYGLASS

A WARM WELCOME awaits you at this immaculate home on the 13th fairway of Spyglass Hill Golf Club. Beyond a skylighted atrium entrance is a large, stepdown living room with fireplace, overlooking the fairway. A good-sized dining room, also with golf course views, leads to the modern kitchen with its generous tiled counter space and breakfast area. Three comfortable bedrooms, 2½ baths. $395,000.

RARE BIRD!

JUST LISTED. A 40 by 100-foot building site on Camino Real near 13th, in Carmel's highly desirable south of Ocean Avenue area. Drive by and note the excellent location and lovely old oak trees, then call us for details. Owner will carry for three years with 20 percent down. $215,000.

COUNTRY TOUCH

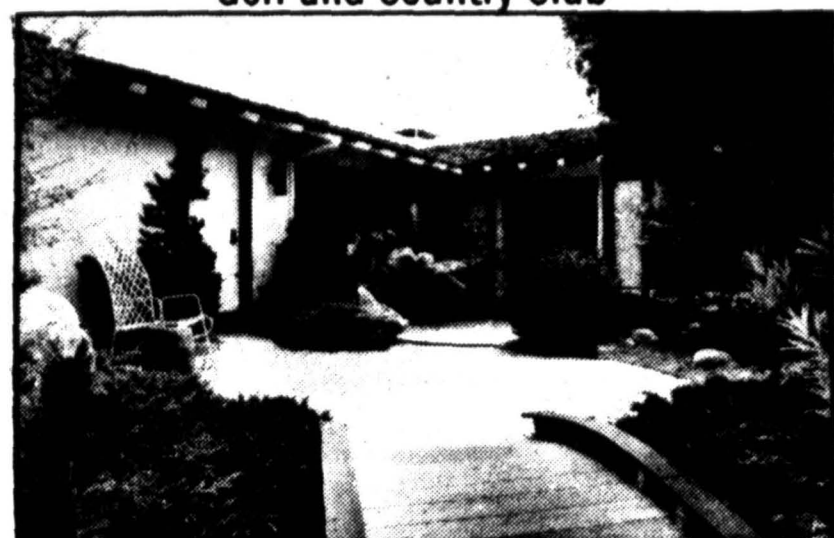

IN CARMEL VALLEY . . . close to the river and close to the Village, this home offers a peaceful, bucolic atmosphere with valley views and privacy. You'll find a 2,400-square-foot home with three bedrooms and two baths, spacious living room with brick fireplace and vaulted beamed ceiling, dining room, modern kitchen, and a big room you can use as den, office, guest room, or teenager's retreat. And finally there are 14 walnut trees on the property! $235,000.

Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club

Entered through this patio, shielded from the street by a high adobe wall and enhanced by oriental planting featuring a stream, this shake-roofed, stucco home has, on its other side, another patio bordering greenbelt across from the first fairway. Three more patios walled with adobe ensure further outdoor enjoyment of a private and sunny site.

Off a glass-walled entrance gallery with a parquet floor, the carpeted living room has a brick fireplace, a vaulted ceiling and window wall access to the fairway-facing patio.

The dining room also opens to the patio facing the fairway and is enhanced by parquet flooring and custom wallpaper.

The kitchen, with an abundance of cabinets and counters as well as a pantry, opens to the breakfast room with another pantry and glass doors to its own patio. Also in the kitchen are doors to the entrance patio and the utility room with an adjacent half-bath and access to the double garage.

Handprinted wallpaper with a Chinese motif, a marble fireplace and glass doors to another walled patio are features of the carpeted and luxurious master suite. A second tiled bathroom, another wallpapered bedroom opening to the fifth patio, also a den with built-in cabinets are off a hallway containing a bar and located in the westerly wing of this architect-designed, professionally decorated and landscaped property protected by a security system. Price. . . $445,000.
